Job Description

If you are interested in helping to solve some of the world's most complex business problems through the effective application of technology and you want to do this in an exciting environment, then joining Deloitte Consulting LLP's Business Technology Analyst (BTA) program can be the start of an exciting career for you. As a member of an entrepreneurial client project team, you will have the opportunity to learn first-hand how we help many of the world's most influential companies develop their information technology strategy and enhance their technology investments. You will work with a diverse group of people across many different industries, business competencies, and technologies. You will have the opportunity to demonstrate leadership and teamwork and can gain increased responsibilities through multiple client experiences.

For example, you may be a part of a focused team assisting a client in determining how the IT function can more effectively support the enterprise strategy, or you may have the chance to contribute to a team working to transform a client's finance function by establishing a single data and technology architecture for its enterprise financial systems. You may also play a role in designing, developing, and implementing a new health care system that could save lives.

When you start, you will receive up to four weeks of orientation, professional training, and relevant technology education to help you launch your consulting career. We provide mentoring and counseling programs, as well as professional and technology training. Additionally, top performing BTAs have the opportunity to apply for our Graduate School Assistance Program (GSAP) after at least two years of employment with us.

After you have accepted our offer to join as a BTA, you will be aligned with one of two Deloitte Consulting LLP practices: Enterprise Applications or Technology Integration. Both of these practices provide practitioners with opportunities to work directly with our clients to better understand their companies as we leverage technology to solve their most complex business problems. We will take your preference during the interview process, recommendations from your interviewers, and our practices' needs into account to align you with one of these two practices prior to your start date.
