Star of the West: Cadet Landon Poe

Last summer, Cadet Landon Poe received the Star of the West research grant. This grant is intended to support the academic enrichment of cadets whose project proposals present a clear connection between the summer experience and their goals after graduation. The grant allowed Poe to study the trends of U.S. financial institutions before the U.K. leaves the European Union.

After returning home, Poe decided to continue his education and began applying to various graduates schools, including the University of Cambridge. In November 2015, he was accepted and will be studying Planning, Growth, and Regeneration in the University of Cambridge’s Land Economy department.

While attending Cambridge, Poe will be living in Wolfson College with his fiancé, who is a Behavioral Science and Psychometrics student from south India. The program begins October 1; however, Poe will be applying for various research fellowship positions after graduating from The Citadel to fill up his time over the summer.
