Mission Statement
Through quality field experiences and a strong theoretical foundation, candidates who pursue this degree develop a comprehensive knowledge of the field of literacy education. This understanding parallels the school’s vision of creating “principled educational leaders who are knowledgeable, reflective, and ethical professionals.”

About the Program
The Master of Education (M.Ed.) in Literacy Education, recognized by the International Reading Association (IRA), is designed to give candidates multiple opportunities to apply theory to practice and to meet the unique challenges confronting 21st Century literacy teachers and literacy coaches. Now more than ever, our society is in need of principled educational professionals capable of and committed to ensuring that all children learn. The curriculum incorporates the latest developments in literacy research with real-world applications that are valuable to teachers in every field.

The program will give candidates the knowledge and mastery of all aspects of the literacy process including the skills to examine a child’s literacy strengths and weaknesses, the skills to recognize individual differences in literacy instruction, and the knowledge to plan, supervise, and enhance programs as a literacy coach.

Program Requirements
The M.Ed. in Literacy Education is a 36-hour program, consisting of 2 professional core requirements and 10 literacy courses. The candidate for the Master of Education in Literacy Education degree must also satisfactorily complete the Praxis II, exam number 10200: Introduction to the Teaching of Reading.

Please refer to The Citadel Graduate College catalog for a complete list of admission and program requirements.

Literacy Teacher/Literacy Coach Certification
Recommendation for certification as Literacy Teacher in South Carolina requires two years teaching experience. Recommendation for certification as Literacy Coach in South Carolina requires five years teaching experience. Upon completion of coursework, a satisfactory score on the Praxis II, and the requisite years of teaching experiences, a candidate completing the M.Ed. in Literacy Education can apply for certification as both Literacy Teacher and Literacy Coach provided the candidate already possesses a valid teaching certificate in the state of South Carolina.

Literacy Teacher/Literacy Coach certification is also available separately without completion of the Master of Education in Literacy Education degree.

“The Master of Education in Literacy Education program has provided me with an opportunity to expand my knowledge of theory and research methods as it applies to my students’ curious individual differences in literacy.”
