Georgia (June 9-29)

Course 1: Georgian Foreign, Defense, and Cyber Security Policy (3 semester hours)

◊ This course examines the current state of Georgian Foreign Defense, and Cyber Security Policy with an emphasis on the Caucasus and Eastern Black Sea Regions.

Course 2: Russian Relations with the Caucasus and Eastern Black Sea Regions (3 semester hours)

◊ The course examines the current state of Russian relations and policy toward the independent states of the Caucasus and Eastern Black Sea Regions
The Republic of Georgia is a critical strategic partner to the United States; for example, it has been the largest per capita contributor to coalition military efforts in Afghanistan. According to security expert Richard Weitz, “Besides its critical position on Russia’s southern flank, Georgia offers Western countries a front-line partner in addressing security issues related to Iran, Turkey, and the Armenia-Azerbaijan dispute.”
