

Richard A. Clarke

Richard Clarke is the founder and CEO of Good Harbor Security Risk Management, and is an advisor to public and private sector leadership on all issues of cyber-security and crisis management. Clarke served in the White House for an unprecedented ten years as Special Advisor to the President on Cyber Security, serving under President George H.W. Bush, President Bill Clinton, and President George W. Bush. Clarke advised on counter-terrorism and served on the National Security Council for ten years. In his role as the nation's "Cyber-Czar," Clarke developed the country's first National Strategy to Defend Cyberspace.

He is the author of the national number one best seller Against All Enemies as well as Cyber War: The Next Threat to National Security and What to Do About It and co-author of The Fifth Domain: Defending Our Country, Our Companies, and Ourselves in the Age of Cyber Threats with Robert K. Knake. His most recent book, Artificial Intelligencia, is available for purchase now.

