

Susan C. Keating

Former President and CEO of Women Corporate Directors

Susan served for four years as President and CEO of the Women Corporate Directors Foundation (WCD), the largest organization of women board members globally. Prior to joining WCD, Susan was President and CEO of the National Foundation for Credit Counseling (NFCC), the largest and longest-serving nonprofit credit counseling organization in the United States. Susan spent 29 years in financial services before moving into the nonprofit sector, serving as President and CEO of Allfirst Financial, Inc., the 43rd largest U.S. bank and was a member of the parent company, AIB's, Executive Committee. Her additional experience includes executive positions with NationsBank, MNC Financial, and First Bank System. Previously, Susan served on the boards of the Baltimore Life Companies, Dauphin Deposit Bank, Virginia Federal and the Financial Services Roundtable, where she was Chair of the Consumer Issues Committee. Susan served on Bank of America's National Consumer Advisory Council and was a board member and Personnel Committee chair for the Council on Accreditation (COA). She also participated in the Financial Regulation Reform Collaborative, a non-partisan group committed to finding solutions for reforming financial services regulation.
