

Tony Tripeny

Tony Tripeny is the retired Executive Vice President, Chief Financial Officer of Corning Incorporated (NYSE: GLW). Throughout his 36 years with Corning, a $14 billion global manufacturer of specialty glass and ceramics products, he held various, progressive leadership roles including Senior Vice President, Corporate Controller and Principal Accounting Officer and was appointed Chief Financial Officer in 2015. Tony has significant corporate accounting and finance experience, extensive knowledge of the manufacturing, engineering, and materials science industries, as well as expertise in international financial operations. He is an accomplished CFO and influential voice to C-Suite teams and boards in profitably growing companies to drive strong shareholder returns. Tony retired in 2022.

He is currently the Chairman of the Board of Directors for Origin Materials (ORGN), the world's leading carbon negative materials company. He also serves on the Board of Mesa Laboratories (MLAB), a global leader in the design and manufacturing of life science tools and critical quality control solutions, and Buckman, a privately held specialty chemicals company. He is the Chairman of the Audit Committee at both Mesa Labs and Buckman. Tony previously served on the Board of Directors for Hardinge Inc (HDNG 2012-2018) and Hemlock Semiconduction Corporation (2016-2021).

He received a bachelor's degree in economics from the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business and is a member of the Financial Executives Institute and the Institute of Management Accounting.
