

THE CITADEL CODE

To revere God, love my country, and be loyal to The Citadel.

To be faithful, honest, and sincere in every act and purpose and to know that honorable failure is better than success by unfairness or cheating.

To perform every duty with fidelity and conscientiousness and to make duty my watchword.

To obey all orders and regulations of The Citadel and of property authority.

To refrain from intoxicants, narcotics, licentiousness, profanity, vulgarity, disorder, and anything that might subject me to reproach or censure within or without the college.

To be diligent in my academic studies and in my military training.

To do nothing inconsistent with my status as a cadet.

To take pride in my uniform and in the noble traditions of the college and never do anything that would bring discredit upon them.

To be courteous and professional in my deportment, bearing, and speech, and to exhibit good manners on all occasions.

To cultivate dignity, poise, affability, and a quiet and firm demeanor.

To make friends with refined, cultivated, and intellectual people.

To improve my mind by reading and participation in intellectual and cultural activities.

To keep my body healthy and strong by physical exercise and participation in many sports.

To be generous and helpful to others and to endeavor to restrain them from wrong doing.

To face difficulties with courage and fortitude and not to complain or be discouraged.

To be worthy of the sacrifices of my parents, the generosity of the state, and the efforts of all who teach and all who administer the college in order that I might receive an education and to recognize my obligation to them.

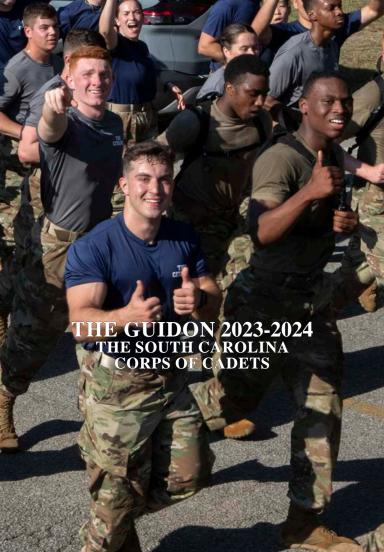

To make the college better by reason of my being a cadet.

To resolve to carry its standards into my future career and to place right above gain and a reputation for integrity above power.

To remember always that the honor of being a Citadel cadet and graduate imposes upon me a corresponding obligation to live up to this code.

The foregoing code is earnestly commended to all cadets in an interpretation of the ideals of The Citadel.

WELCOME TO THE CITADEL

The Guidon is published every year as a source of information for fourth class cadets. Some is for your familiarization and situational awareness and other parts are required pieces of knowledge. All of it is useful and designed to help you be successful. Cadet recruits are encouraged to begin studying The Guidon before arriving at The Citadel.

The Guidon consists of three parts: general information that will help a cadet recruit become acclimated to The Citadel campus and lifestyle, required fourth-class knowledge, and practical "how to" tips on life as a knob. The cadet chain of command will test knobs on each piece of required knowledge and record the results in the tracking log in the back of The Guidon. This log and the process associated with it will be one assessment tool that TAC (Teach, Advise, and Coach) Officers can use as part of the developmental counseling process.

The required knowledge will be presented in manageable sizes that correspond to milestones in the fourth-classmen's progression through the year. The milestones are broken down as follows: the end of Challenge Week, the end of Cadre Period, the end of first semester, and second semester until Recognition Day. The knowledge progresses from rudimentary information through more complex ideas, and culminates with the cadets becoming familiar with the Leadership Development Plan for The Citadel and how they will fit into that plan as upperclassmen.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Members of The Class of 2027, Welcome.

You enter The Citadel at a time when the need for principled leadership was never greater, and I commend you for choosing the academic, physical, and mental challenges The Citadel offers. These challenges foster personal growth, and develop you in mind, body, and spirit.

Cadet life is more demanding, and more rewarding, than you imagine. Your relationships with classmates are central to success and create lifelong connections. Forge them immediately.

Integrity and hard work are required of every cadet- expect to be held to a high standard. The benefits of honesty and discipline are manifold. In practicing self-respect and respect for others, you gain confidence by living an honorable and methodical life. Take responsibility for your actions, and experience the rewards of putting service before self. You will leave The Citadel armed with the education and values necessary to lead in your profession and community, as our cadets and alumni have since 1842.

Resources for your academic, military, physical, emotional, and spiritual needs are at your disposal. If you are struggling, we have ways to help- The Citadel is vested in your success. Ask for assistance before a problem becomes a crisis.

The Citadel develops principled leaders for all walks of life. Embrace our tradition of excellence, and live by our core values of Honor, Duty, and Respect.

Best wishes as you commence this journey. I look forward to watching your success.

Glenn M. Walters '79 General, USMC, (Retired) President

MESSAGE FROM THE PROVOST AND DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

As the Chief Academic Officer of The Citadel, it is my pleasure to welcome you on behalf of the faculty and staff. Our mission to educate and develop principled leaders for all walks of life has never been more essential to the nation and to the world. We are dedicated to the future success of our students, dedication that is steeped in the quality of teaching, thoughtful advising, and insightful mentorship throughout your next four years.

You will learn to embrace our Core Values of Honor, Duty and Respect. These values are lived by everyone on campus and enrich our shared culture.

Two of the most valuable components of our College are our esteemed faculty and our small class sizes, enabling you to get to know your professors well and work with them on exciting research and meaningful community service projects.

You have chosen the road less traveled by committing to The Citadel Experience of academic distinction and military discipline. It will be challenging, but it will be worth it. Citadel graduates are enriched with our loyal alumni network and the opportunities that come with a Citadel band of gold.

Take this time to experiment with new activities and push yourself beyond your comfort zone. The years will go by quickly, so enjoy them and realize that the friendships you forge here will last a lifetime. In four short years, we will gather together at McAllister Field House to celebrate your successes and your graduation!

Dr. Sally Selden Brigadier General, SCM Provost and Dean of the College

MESSAGE FROM THE COMMANDANT

Congratulations on your choice to embark on "the road less traveled." It will require subjecting yourself to the trials of the Fourth-Class System and adhering to a culture of discipline to reap its transformational When you succeed, benefits. you will forevermore be known as a Citadel Graduate and a member of the Class of 2027. Membership in this "Long Gray Line" is earned and extended only to those living our core values of honor, duty, respect.

Developing women of character and virtue, and returning principled leaders to society is our mission. Here we build "inner citadels" of character, resourcing the world with servant leaders for all walks of life. The Citadel's Leadership Development Program is unique in its focus on the whole person. It rests upon four pillars: academics, military, fitness, and character. Academics develops skills and knowledge, enhancing your ability to think critically, and inspires lifelong learning. The military component represents discipline and leadership development. Fitness is not simply physical, here we develop spiritual strength and emotional wellness. Character development, however, is not a workout program it is a choice. Your character is defined by your personal choices. It takes form in your inner confrontations and the struggle to overcome internal weakness in the pursuit of virtue. These choices, repeated over time, become habits—an engraved set of dispositions and a desire to do the right thing.

The Citadel's Honor Code is foundational to your pursuit of virtue. You are required to adhere to its tenets during your four years at The Citadel, and hopefully the balance of your life. More importantly, you are expected to move beyond the Honor Code's simple negatives (shalt not's) to a broader concept of integrity, making good on your promises, and standing up for your beliefs.

The Citadel's Fourth-Class system will challenge you. Everything worthwhile in life is achieved by overcoming a difficult experience. You will learn to make the best of adversity by reframing stressful situations as opportunities. In navigating the system, you will discover character strengths, time management skills, and the ability to operate - and succeed - under stress.

As a Citadel graduate, and now the Commandant of Cadets, this place will forever hold a special place in my heart. My classmates helped mold me into the person I am today. I could not have done it without them, and you will not be able to do it by yourself either. By design, the system cannot be completed alone. You will need the trust and support of your classmates, and be a good teammate yourself, to make it.

Followership represents the earliest step in your leadership development. Knobs give up freedom of time and action and earn them back as privileges. The system is all about achieving a standard—The Citadel standard. Rules and regulations govern daily cadet life, and you must know, understand, and follow them. Always act responsibly, treat others with respect, and hold yourself accountable for your decisions.

You chose to prove yourself – remember your purpose. I am here for you.

Thomas J. Gordon Colonel, USMC (Retired) Commandant of Cadets Citadel Class of 1991

MESSAGE FROM THE REGIMENTAL COMMANDER

Class of 2027,

Take a moment and reflect on the person you are today. Think about who you were when you arrived on campus. Now, think ahead nine months and four years down the road. Who do you want to be? What do you want to accomplish? Why did you choose to endure the hardships of The Citadel? If done correctly, you should not be able to recognize the person you were nine months prior to starting on this journey. However, that is completely up to you and depends on how you choose to approach this first year.

Think about this first year like training for a marathon when you've never run a day in your life. How far you make it is completely up to you. At first, you will be exhausted; the days will feel long, nights will feel short, and there will be times when the sun never seems to set. In these trying times, you will learn who you really are and what you can really handle. The Citadel is not meant to be easy. This reputation and honor comes with plenty of sacrifices. Simply existing here will not get you to the finish line. You will push yourself to limits you never knew were possible, and when you don't think you can go any further, you will.

The biggest challenge you will face is being consistent. Do not let your effort, standards, or character change from day to day. Wake up every morning and strive to be better than you were yesterday. It will not be easy, there will be forks in the road along the way, and sometimes you will want to take the shortcut. That will be when you find out who you really are. Will you take the easy path, or will you do what is right? You are not alone; you have people to your left and right to lean on when you need them. Do everything you can to better one another and you will, in turn, better yourself. Finally, never forget the reason why you came here. When the hard days come, your why will be what gets you through.

Regardless of who you are today or why you decided to come to the Citadel, this marks just the beginning of your preparation to complete the marathon. Every challenge you face, I expect you to face it head-on. The men and women who have paved the way for you are counting on you to carry on a long legacy of honor, duty, and respect. You are the people our country needs so desperately. Do not forget where your journey started; always stay humble; be a good person; and always remember your why. In 9 months, the person you have become should not be able to recognize who you are today. It is an honor to be a Citadel man or woman, not a right. Earn that honor.

Cadet Colonel Sullivan Newsome Regimental Commander, SCCC

I. VISION, CORE VALUES, AND MISSION

THE STATEMENT OF VISION

ACHIEVING EXCELLENCE IN THE EDUCATION AND DEVELOPMENT OF PRINCIPLED LEADERS.

Mission

The Citadel's mission as an institution of higher education is "to educate and develop our students to become principled leaders in all walks of life by instilling the core values of The Citadel in a disciplined and intellectually challenging environment."

The Citadel recognizes that this lifelong process of education and development begins before matriculation and continues long after graduation. Leadership is inherently relational, and "good" leadership proves to be both effective and ethical. Such leadership requires actions and behaviors that influence others toward positive, beneficial change. Therefore, while leadership development may begin with one's own development, at its best, leadership is not about one's self or personal success but rather about developing and serving others in ways that help everyone to succeed together.

While leadership education and development draw from many different leadership approaches, styles, and techniques, none alone serves equally well in every possible context and situation. Therefore, to be fully effective and successful, emerging leaders must understand and master an array of concepts to discern the type of leadership that will be most effective in a given situation. Recognizing that The Citadel's mission calls for preparing principled leaders in all walks of life, students learn a wide range of leadership approaches and techniques that this program tests in proven, diverse organizational settings.

Applying two of the key concepts within The Citadel's mission, the Cadet Leader Development Program emphasizes the importance of development and environment. Development engages a process in which the individual becomes able to respond effectively in many different situations and integrate many diverse experiences. The environment consists of the context in which the development process occurs, including the challenges and support that enable such growth, both in the classroom and beyond.

From The Citadel's longstanding history and deeply embedded traditions have emerged the institution's three core values: HONOR, DUTY, & RESPECT. Their importance permeates the entire Citadel community, and their emphasis creates a common identity, sense of unity, and shared expectation that cadets integrate these values into all aspects of life and demonstrate them at every level and in every endeavor. The values of honor, duty and respect constitute the foundation of the Cadet Leader Development Program.

CORE VALUES

Honor

Honor preserves the moral authority and trustworthiness leaders must earn to effectively influence others. People of honor lead with integrity and conduct themselves with the knowledge of being part of something larger than they are. A person of honor does the right thing the right way—even when no one is watching or when a personal cost is incurred. This value begins with personal adherence to the letter and the spirit of the Honor Code that "a cadet does not lie, cheat, or steal, nor tolerate those who do." In its more advanced stages, honor includes forging a unity of values that guides the action of all members in the organization.

Duty

Duty instills a personal sense of accountability and eagerness to lead others to mission accomplishment. It means doing what needs to be done without being asked or ordered. A strong concept of duty allows a leader to persevere, overcoming obstacles and challenges, leading a team to success. This value begins with adherence to the Cadet Regulations. In its more advanced stages, duty includes building an organization in which individuals act on their own initiative to fulfill a vision.

Respect

Respect encompasses self-respect and respect for others. Leaders earn respect by developing the technical, interpersonal, and conceptual skills necessary for building teams and leading others. Respect means recognizing and nurturing the inherent dignity and self-worth of each individual and creating the opportunities uniquely needed for them to grow individually and contribute to the organization. This value begins with protecting basic human rights and civil liberties. In its more advanced stages, respect includes empowering members of the organization to become the best version of themselves possible.

PRINCIPLED LEADERSHIP

Principled leadership is influencing others to accomplish organizational goals while adhering to the organization's core values.

Principled leadership puts the leader's character into action, guiding thoughts, words, and deeds to produce outcomes consistent with the core values of the organization. While principled leaders reject decisions, priorities, or actions counter to these values or their own moral and ethical standards, principle leaders represent a particularly empowering form of leadership that allows the freedom to develop creative and adaptive solutions that meet the demands of fluid and complex situations.

II. THE CADET SYSTEM

The Citadel system matures, refines, trains, and schools the totality of one's character. This finely balanced process is called the "whole person" concept. During four years as a cadet you will be developed academically, physically, militarily, morally, and ethically through a process more completely described in A Guide for the Cadet Leader Development Program (LDP). This guide is available on the website for the Krause Center for Leadership & Ethics. The Fourth Class system is part of the "prepare" stage in this process.

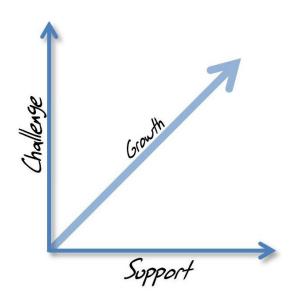

PRINCIPLED LEADER DEVELOPMENT

THE CITADEL EXPERIENCE

CHALLENGE AND SUPPORT

In order for growth and development to occur, challenges in the environment must be balanced with environmental supports. One of the first challenges you will encounter at The Citadel is the fourth class system. There are many supports available to help you meet this challenge including your cadre, classmates, and TAC. These and other supports are noted in Section VIII. They are critical to The Citadel Experience and your success in it.

THE BLUE BOOK, THE WHITE BOOK, AND OTHER REFERENCES

The Regulations of The Citadel are contained in two books located on the college website under "Office of the Commandant." The Blue Book and the White Book can be found under "Cadet Regulations." An introduction, overview, and certification test of each book will be given to all Cadet Recruits during the Fourth Class Training and Orientation Week. The Blue Book covers the rules of cadet behavior. The White Book details Cadet Basic Skills, Cadet Operational Procedures, and various Cadet Programs. All cadets are expected to know how to access these references. It would be beneficial for all incoming freshmen to review these publications prior to their arrival. To access these documents go to https://www.citadel.edu/commandant/cadet-regulations/

POLICY ON SEXUAL MISCONDUCT

All Citadel students and employees are entitled to a positive learning and working environment free from any type of sexual misconduct. The Citadel's administration has zero tolerance for any form of sexual misconduct, to include sexual harassment, sexual violence, and/or interpersonal violence. In severe instances of sexual misconduct, cadets may be expelled and employees may have their employment terminated. Sexual harassment (SH) includes unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical harassment of a sexual nature in the workplace or learning environment

SEXUAL HARASSMENT DEFINED

Sexual harassment (SH) is unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature that may occur in person, in writing, and/ or through electronic means. It is frequently a display of formal or informal power intended to demean, embarrass, intimidate, or coerce a person of any gender or gender identity. SH does not always depend on a difference in power and frequently is found in peer-to-peer harassment. Sexual harassment may consist of repeated behaviors or arise from a single incident if sufficiently severe.

Sexual harassment includes, but is not limited to:

- Domestic violence
- Dating violence
- Lewd or sexually suggestive and/or explicit comments, jokes, or innuendoes
- Sexually demeaning gender-based words or gender-based comments or comments about not conforming to certain genders
- Persistent, unwelcome flirtation, requests for dates, advances, propositions, or demands of a sexual nature that are not mutually agreeable to both parties
- Questions, comments, or rumors about a person's sexuality or sexual activities
- Sexually obscene messages or spreading rumors distributed via computer, email, phone and/or on social media sites
- Sexual graffiti and/or explicit pictures, videos, and/or cartoons
- Comments about or unwanted touching, fondling, patting, pinching, or deliberate brushing against a person's body

- Intentionally cornering or blocking another's passage
- Stalking
- Threats or insinuations that lead a person reasonably to believe that submitting to or denying sexual favors will affect his or her reputation, education, employment, advancement, or standing within The Citadel community

Behaviors and language described above may also be considered harassment by third parties who are not the intentional targets for the behavior. Cadets who believe they have been sexually harassed or know someone who they believe has been sexually harassed should contact one of the many reporting options offered on and off campus, to include CARE, Title IX, Ombudsmen, Chaplain, Counseling, or the Infirmary. For more information see The Citadel's sexual harassment policy.

SEXUAL VIOLENCE DEFINED

Sexual violence is defined as any non-consensual physical conduct of a sexual nature and encompasses a broad range of behaviors including, but not limited to:

- Non-Consensual Sexual Intercourse: Any sexual penetration (anal, oral, or vaginal) however slight, with any body part or any object without affirmative consent. This is commonly referred to as rape.
- Non-Consensual Sexual Contact: Touching of someone's intimate body parts such as genitalia, groin, breast, buttocks, or any clothing covering them; touching a person with one's own intimate body parts; or compelling another to touch one's intimate body parts without affirmative consent. These acts are commonly referred to as sexual assault.

AFFIRMATIVE CONSENT is an affirmative decision to engage in mutually acceptable sexual activity given by clear actions or words. It is an informed decision made freely and actively by all parties who are legally able to consent.

Cadets who believe they, or someone they know, has been sexually assaulted should contact the director of Campus Advocacy, Response and Education (CARE). More in-depth information on the sexual violence policy can be found at https://www.citadel.edu/root/images/policies/sexual-violence-prevention-and-response-policy.pdf

OTHER TYPES OF DISCRIMINATION OR HARASSMENT

The Citadel expressly forbids discrimination by or toward any person hired by, affiliated with, or a student at the college because of race, color, religion, gender, sexual orientation, or national origin. This includes peer-on-peer harassment. Details on reporting cases of discrimination or harassment can be found in the Blue Book and in the "Policies and Procedures" page of the Human Resources website.

TORACCO AND VAPING POLICY

The Citadel is a tobacco and vaping free campus. Tobacco use in all forms, including vaping devices, is prohibited in all facilities, buildings, and areas owned and operated by The Citadel. Information on the tobacco and vaping policy and be found at http://www.citadel.edu/root/images/policies/2-014-tobacco-product-free-campus-policy.pdf.

Cadets who are found in violation of any part of the tobacco and vaping policy can expect to receive disciplinary actions including monetary fines, tours, confinements, and loss of rank. Information about discipline for tobacco policy violations (TVs) can be found online in the Blue Book or by contacting the Assistant Commandant for Discipline, COL Heyward Hutson at hhutson 1@citadel.edu.

ALCOHOL POLICY

The Citadel expressly prohibits the unlawful purchase, possession, distribution and/or use of alcohol (e.g., underage drinking) including the possession of alcohol on property owned or controlled by The Citadel (e.g., bringing alcohol onto campus or into the barracks) or off-campus when a cadet or student is acting as a representative of The Citadel. Information on the alcohol policy can be found at https://web.citadel.edu/root/images/policies/alcohol-and-other-drugs-policy.pdf.

Cadets who are found in violation of any part of the alcohol policy can expect to receive disciplinary actions up to and including battalion transfers, loss of parking, loss of rank, monetary fines, or dismissal from the college for multiple violations. Information about discipline for alcohol policy violations (AVs) can be found online in the Blue Book or by contacting the Assistant Commandant for Discipline, COL Heyward Hutson at hhutson1@citadel.edu.

DRUG POLICY

The Citadel expressly prohibits the use of illegal drugs and supports only the legal use of prescription drugs. Information on the drug policy can be found at http://www.citadel.edu/root/images/policies/alcohol-and-other-drugs-policy.pdf

The Citadel randomly tests members of the Corps of Cadets for the presence of illegal drugs. Participation in mandatory drug testing is a condition of acceptance and continued enrollment as a cadet at The Citadel. A positive drug test will result in expulsion from the college. Information about cadet discipline for violation of the drug policy can be found online in the Blue Book or by contacting the Assistant Commandant for Discipline, COL Heyward Hutson at hhutson1@citadel.edu.

For private and confidential assistance with tobacco, vaping, alcohol and/or drug related issues, please contact the Director of CADIC (Campus Alcohol and Drug Information Center), Mr. Kevin M. Modglin at kmodglin@citadel.edu. or visit him in Mark Clark Hall, Room 217. Remote appointments via Skype, Zoom, or FaceTime are also available. Additional information is available at https://web.citadel.edu/root/cadic

III. COLLEGE ORGANIZATION

BOARD OF VISITORS

The Board of Visitors (BOV), the college's governing body, is composed of eleven graduates of the college: seven elected by joint vote of the South Carolina General Assembly, three elected by alumni through The Citadel Alumni Association and one appointed by the governor. All members serve six-year terms. Additional information regarding the BOV is available online at citadel.edu/bov.

EXECUTIVE STAFF

The executive staff is led by the president and is composed of the vice presidents of the college. Further information regarding the executive staff can be found online at citadel.edu/administration/president.

TAC OFFICERS AND NCOS

TAC Officers and NCOs (Non Commissioned Officers) serve as representatives of the Commandant and maintain offices in the barracks. Their primary mission is to Teach, Advise, and Coach cadets as they develop as principled leaders, but they also perform a series of other functions to connect cadets to the resources they need to be successful. Further information on TAC Officers & NCOs can be found at citadel.edu/commandant/cmdt-department-bios/tac-officers-and-ncos.

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT HEADS

The Citadel is organized into five academic schools: the School of Engineering, the School of Humanities and Social Sciences, the Swain Family School of Science and Mathematics, the Tommy and Victoria Baker School of Business and the Zucker Family School of Education as well as the Department of Leadership Studies. The schools are led by deans, and each academic department has a department head. For additional information, go to citadel.edu, click on Academics and navigate to the individual school or academic department. Included in academic departments are the three Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) departments which offer basic military and officer training. Please note that while cadets must successfully complete a course in one of the three ROTC programs or a designated fulfillment course each semester, they are not required to serve in the military following graduation. Each of the ROTC departments is led by an active duty officer. Additional information on ROTC department heads can be found citadel.edu/rotc.

IV. HISTORY OF THE CITADEL

EARLY YEARS

The Citadel has a long history of preparing its graduates to serve their country, both in civil and military pursuits. The idea of "citizen-soldiers," trained to take up arms for their country in time of conflict but prepared to serve with integrity and discipline in all walks of life, has been central to its mission from its early years.

In December of 1822, following the discovery of a slave revolt planned by Denmark Vesey, the South Carolina state legislature passed "An Act to Establish a Competent Force as a Municipal Guard for the Protection of the City of Charleston and Vicinity." The original Citadel, intended to serve as an arsenal and guardhouse, was constructed near the site of Charleston's Revolutionary War fortifications. Located just north of Calhoun Street, it stood in a neighborhood of free blacks, working-class whites, and slaves, where it provided a visible reminder of city authority. It was initially intended to house a municipal guard, but was instead guarded first by United States troops and then, during and after the Nullification Crisis in the early 1830s, by local troops.

In 1833, the legislature voted to consolidate arms and munitions at two locations, The Citadel in Charleston and the Arsenal in Columbia. In 1842, they voted to replace the local guard with students. Half of the students would pay tuition; the other half would be "beneficiary cadets," young men selected from among the poorer residents of each county, whose tuition would be paid by the state. Importantly, all cadets took the same classes and performed the same duties, while uniforms erased social distinctions and rank was based on merit alone. The inclusion of cadets from all counties helped unify the state politically, while the spaces available to beneficiary cadets made The Citadel one of the only places in the state where the sons of poorer citizens could gain a college education.

In their curriculum and military training the schools were modeled on the United States Military Academy at West Point, Norwich (University), and the Virginia Military Institute.

The first classes were taught in 1843. Two years later The Citadel and Arsenal were combined, so that Fourth Class cadets (freshmen) attended classes at the Arsenal, then transferred to The Citadel for their remaining three years. From the beginning, The Citadel was known for its high academic standards. Cadets were required to take courses in history, literature, logic, French, moral philosophy, and elocution, a liberal arts education that would prepare them to serve as leaders in public life. Many entered careers in law, medicine, and education.

They also studied the practical sciences, including chemistry, physics, civil and military engineering, mathematics, astronomy, geology, and surveying. Among the school's early alumni, E. L. Heriot, Class of 1847, conducted the first railroad survey west and south of the Rio Grande River, while T. J. Arnold, Class of 1852, designed the harbor and wharves of San Francisco and Oakland, California.

Students also studied infantry and artillery tactics, and helped train the state's Palmetto Regiment for service in the Mexican-American War.

THE CIVIL WAR AND RECONSTRUCTION

When South Carolina seceded from the Union in December 1860, federal troops were moved from Fort Moultrie to Fort Sumter. To protect the entrance to Charleston Harbor, the Governor of South Carolina ordered a fortification to be constructed on Morris Island. On January 9, 1861, Citadel cadets who were stationed on Morris Island fired on a U.S. steamer, the Star of the West, which had been sent to re-supply Fort Sumter.

On January 28, 1861, the Corps of Cadets were incorporated into the military organization of the state as The Battalion of State Cadets. The cadets took part in eight engagements in defense of Charleston and South Carolina. In recognition of their service, the Office of the South Carolina Adjutant General authorized The Citadel to carry the following battle and campaign streamers:

Star of the West, January 9, 1861

Wappoo Cut, November 1861

James Island, June 1862

Charleston and Vicinity, July to October 1863

James Island, June 1864

Tulifinny, December 1864

James Island, December 1864 to February 1865

Williamston, May 1865

The college remained in operation throughout much of the war, and cadets were eligible for commissions in the state's military upon graduation. Of the 224 graduates living at the time of the Civil War, 209 entered the Confederate service. Four graduates achieved the rank of Brigadier General: Johnson Hagood, Ellison Capers, Evander Law and Micah Jenkins. Citadel graduates were involved in the major battles of the war, including Fort Sumter, First Manassas, Shiloh, Vicksburg, Antietam, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Atlanta, and Petersburg.

The Arsenal Armory in Columbia burned during the fall of 1865 and never reopened. The Citadel was occupied by federal troops when Union forces entered Charleston in early 1865. After the end of Reconstruction Citadel alumni, who had organized the Association of Graduates in 1852, pressured the legislature to reopen the school. Although many legislators questioned the need for a state-supported military college in the absence of munitions to guard, the support of alumni and the Washington Light Infantry, as well as the school's renewed commitment to educating beneficiary cadets, ultimately saved the institution. It reopened in 1882.

MILITARY SERVICE

Citadel alumni have served in all major military actions in which the United States has been involved since the late nineteenth century. Seventeen graduates served with volunteer regiments and five alumni served with the Regular Army in the Spanish-American War in 1898. The National Defense Act of 1916 began the formation of Reserve Officers Training Corps in U.S. colleges and offered the opportunity for recent graduates to enter the Regular Army. 315 Citadel graduates served in World War I; of the class of 1917, all 33 entered military service.

During World War II, The Citadel had the distinction of having the highest percentage of its students enter the military service of any college, with the exception of the service academies. Of 2,976 living graduates in 1946, 2,927 had served their country. Before the end of the war, 279 Citadel men had given their lives. Citadel graduates participated in all major campaigns of World War II, from Pearl Harbor through the major engagements in the European, North African, and Pacific Theaters, and at sea. A number of Citadel graduates fought in the Philippines and endured the Bataan Death March. The Citadel also provided wartime training to over 10,000 men under a contract with the War Department.

In the Korean War, roughly 1500 alumni were on active duty, and 31 graduates were killed in action. Sixty-five Citadel men gave their lives in Vietnam, and several graduates were prisoners of war in North Vietnam. Graduates also displayed their valor in the liberation of Grenada and peacekeeping operations in Beirut, Lebanon, and in the Balkans. During the Persian Gulf War 22 cadets served with Reserve and National Guard units; alumni served in both the Active and Reserve components of the Armed Forces. Citadel alumni, veteran students, and current cadets assigned to activated Reserve and National Guard units have served in both Afghanistan and Iraq.

CITADEL EXPANSION

The Corps of Cadets has grown from 43 students enrolled at the Arsenal and Citadel in 1843 to ~2130, in 2022-2023. With ~40 percent of the Corps now coming from out of state, and a student body that represents over a couple dozen of countries, the college draws students from a wide range of backgrounds and experiences. Go to citadel.edu/institutional-research/enrollment-profiles for more information.

The Citadel has attracted international students since the 1920s, when Chinese students entered as cadets, sponsored by the Boxer Indemnity Fund. Most went on to serve in the Chinese Army, several achieving the rank of Brigadier General. The Chinese cadets were followed by groups of students from Thailand in the 1960s, Iran in the 1970s, and Jordan in the 1970s and 1980s. Connections forged during international students' college years could grow into lifelong bridges: Charles G. Huie later returned to the U.S. to conduct research as an engineer with the U.S. Army; Andrew Chinn became a business owner in the U.S.

The first African-American cadet, Charles D. Foster, entered The Citadel in 1966, three years after South Carolina began integrating its public colleges and universities. He graduated in 1970, followed by Joseph Shine in 1971; six African-American students graduated in 1973. African-American students were often targeted with racial slurs and threats of racial violence. At the same time, the unique culture of the Corps of Cadets, and particularly the shared experience of the Fourth Class system, helped promote integration across racial lines.

Women began attending The Citadel in 1949 as part of the summer school program, and were admitted to evening classes in 1966. In 1995, Shannon Faulkner, through court orders, became the first woman to matriculate into the Corps of Cadets. She resigned a few days later, but the next year, following a United States Supreme Court ruling on a similar case involving the Virginia Military Institute, The Citadel Board of Visitors voted to revoke the male-only admissions policy of the Corps of Cadets.

In August of 1996, four females matriculated with the class of 2000. Two of these resigned amid allegations of hazing and harassment. The lawsuits and negative publicity associated with this incident marked a difficult time for the reputation and image of The Citadel and its alumni. Nancy Mace received her degree three years later, becoming the first female graduate of the Corps of Cadets. She was followed by Petra Lovetinska, who became the first female cadet to receive a commission in the U.S. Armed Forces. Women and minorities are an integral part of the Corps, many occupying key positions in the cadet chain-of-command, varsity athletics, and campus organizations. They also form an important part of The Citadel's strong alumni network and have served on The Citadel Board of Visitors.

Veteran students, too, have become important contributors to The Citadel's academic life. Veterans were first admitted as civilian students under the GI Bill at the end of World War II; the current veterans program was established in 2007 and offers veterans the opportunity to complete or advance their education in an environment that understands and appreciates military service.

In 1968, The Citadel began granting graduate degrees through an evening program. The program grew until 1994, when The Citadel Board of Visitors approved the foundation of the College of Graduate and Professional Studies (now known as The Citadel Graduate College, or CGC). A coeducational institution from its conception, the CGC is now a mainstay of The Citadel's academic environment, offering more than 60 graduate degrees and certificates.

The Citadel's growth has led to the need for an ever-larger physical campus. By the end of World War I, the school had outgrown its location on Marion Square and the City of Charleston donated land, previously the site of the South Carolina Interstate and West Indian Exposition, for a new campus. The current campus opened in 1922 with Padgett-Thomas Barracks, an infirmary, two wings of Bond Hall, and other auxiliary buildings. State- and federally- funded building projects during the Depression included Summerall Chapel and the distinctive Works Progress Administration faculty houses. The college continues to expand as it serves a growing student body.

LEADING THE COMMUNITY AND THE WORLD

In addition to a long history of military service, the school's citizen-soldier ideal prepares graduates for service and leadership in civil capacities. Alumni have gone on to pursue distinguished careers in areas including law, politics, medicine, engineering, education, business, and law enforcement. Ernest F. Hollings, Class of 1942, served as South Carolina Governor and United States Senator. Joseph P. Riley, Jr., Class of 1964, served ten consecutive terms as mayor of Charleston, overseeing a number of ambitious development projects. Alvah H. Chapman, Class of 1942, headed the influential Knight Ridder newspaper chain, while author Pat Conroy graduated in the Class of 1967. The Citadel and its graduates have also been active in world affairs. In addition to serving as Governor of South Carolina, John C. West, Class of 1942, served as U.S. Ambassador to Saudi Arabia, while Langhorne

A. Motley, Class of 1960, served as U.S. Ambassador to Brazil and as Assistant Secretary of State for Latin American Affairs.

Today's Citadel builds on this distinguished legacy, preparing students to lead with integrity in an increasingly interconnected world. Through a growing study abroad program, students develop language skills and gain experience working with a range of cultures and countries. The current honor system, re-instituted in 1955, enshrines the integrity of students and alumni as a cornerstone of The Citadel's values. During their academic careers and beyond, Citadel men and women put into practice the core values and principles of the institution.

V. THE CORPS OF CADETS

ORGANIZATION OF THE CORPS OF CADETS

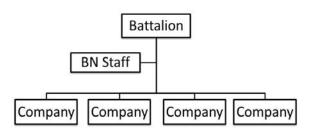

The SCCC constitutes a regiment (REGT). It is commanded by a Cadet Colonel with the direct supervision and advice of the Commandant and the TACs. Under the Cadet Colonel's control are the Regimental Band and five battalions (BN). Each battalion is, in turn, commanded by a Cadet Lieutenant Colonel who is in charge of one of the five barracks in which the cadets are billeted. The Companies (CO) housed in each battalion are commanded by a Cadet Captain. The Company is the basic administrative unit to which the new cadet will be assigned. Each Company is divided into three platoons, each one under the supervision of a Cadet Second Lieutenant. The platoons are further subdivided into three squads headed by a Cadet Sergeant. The squads are the smallest units within the Corps.

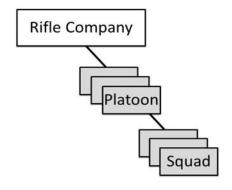

CORPS ORGANIZATION

*Although operationally a regimental asset, The Regimental Band is administratively assigned to 2nd Battalion.

THE UNIFORM

The Citadel uniform is symbolic of an institution that has maintained an enviable standing in the military and scholastic circles around the nation. Fourth Class cadets will immediately be taught that it is a privilege to wear the uniform and that it must be worn properly at all times.

Badges, ribbons, and medals are awarded to cadets of The Citadel as symbols of acknowledgment for individual or unit achievement. Badges and medals are worn on the full dress uniform. Ribbons and badges are worn on the dress, or summer leave uniforms. For a complete list of uniforms, badges, ribbons, and medals and their proper positions on uniforms, see chapter 7, Section 5 of the White Book.

CADET RANK INSIGNIA

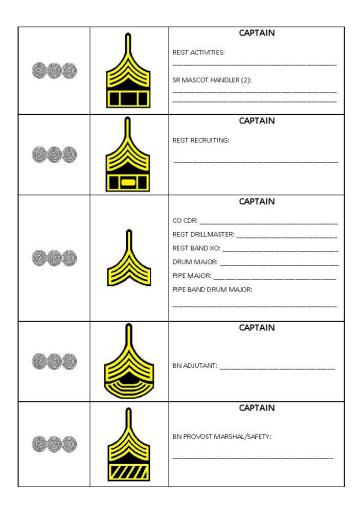

NOTE: The collar insignia is worn on the right collar of the duty uniform. A cadet rank patch will be worn on the rank tab centered on the ACU blouse. RG Staff insignia is worn on both collars. BN Staff rank is worn on the sleeve of both the dress and full dress uniform.

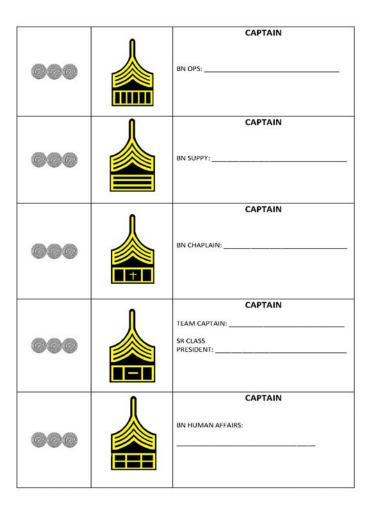

ADDITIONAL NOTES: Fourth Class Cadets are required to know all rank insignias and must know by name their own chain of command, e.g. only their Squad Corporal, Squad Leader, Platoon Sergeant, Platoon Leader, First Sergeant, Supply Sergeant, CO Executive Officer (XO), CO Commander (CDR), BN Command Sergeant Major (CSM), BN XO, BN CDR, REGT Command Sergeant Major (RCSM), REGT XO, Deputy REGT CDR, and REGT CDR.

VI. CUSTOMS AND TRADITIONS

The customs of the Corps are the outward manifestations of its inherent character. The strict observance of these customs has for its objective the perpetuation of the corps' pride, spirit, and morale.

THE CAP DEVICE

The cap device changed several times between 1842 and 1910, but since the latter date, except from 1933 to 1937, it has remained the same as it appears on Citadel caps today.

The cap device consists of the palmetto tree, which appears on the South Carolina state flag, and two shields taken from the Seal of the State of South Carolina. The inscription "The Citadel" is located between the top of the shields and the lower branches of the palmetto. In the shield on the right of the large palmetto are a small palmetto tree, two small shields, one on each side of the tree, and the date 1776. At the top of the exergue are the words "South Carolina" and at the bottom of the same, the words Animis Opibusque Parati, meaning, "Prepared in mind and resources."

The shield on the left side of the large palmetto has the figure of a woman walking on the seashore over swords and daggers. In her right hand, she holds a laurel branch, and she is looking toward the sun just rising above the sea. The words Dum Spiro Spero meaning "While I Breathe I Hope," are inscribed at the summit of the shield and Spes, meaning "Hope," is inscribed within the field below the figure. At the bottom of the device is the year The Citadel was founded, 1842.

THE CITADEL RING

The Citadel ring signifies a host of accomplishments. Not only does it symbolize a partial history of the State of South Carolina and The Citadel, but also it relates the ideals for which the college was founded. Almost every feature of the ring is symbolic of a goal or an attainment of past members of the SCCC. The oval crest of the ring is dominated by a reproduction of the palmetto, the state tree of South Carolina. In addition, it represents the "Palmetto Regiment," a military body trained by Citadel cadets and sent from South Carolina to fight in the Mexican War. Third, it represents a fort on Sullivan's Island built from palmetto logs, which successfully resisted many British men of war during the Revolutionary War. The two oval shields at the base of the palmetto tree are miniature replicas of the state shield. The shield inscriptions are accurate and readable with a low-power glass.

On the right shank of the ring, the star commemorates the shelling of the Union supply steamer "The Star of the West" and memorializes all those Citadel cadets and graduates who have died in defense of their country. The United States and South Carolina colors depict the unity and coordination between South Carolina and the federal government. Outside the old Citadel on Marion Square was a stack of cannon balls. To serve as a link between the old Citadel and the Greater Citadel, as well as representing the artillery, one of the two original courses of military instruction, a stack of cannon balls is located on the bottom of the shank. Adopted as a part of The Citadel ring, they bind the new college with the spirit and tradition of the old.

On the left shank of the ring are a rifle, saber, wreath, and a 30-caliber bullet. Upon closer observation, an oak leaf is seen in the background of the muzzle of the rifle, and by the tip of the sword is a spray of laurel. Although difficult to discern, the oak leaf is one of the most powerful motifs of the ring; it stands for the oak tree and its characteristic attributes of strength and endurance. Of equal importance in a world torn by perpetual military conflicts the concept of victory blessed by peace, represented by the laurel and the wreath respectively. By means of these symbols, the ideals and concepts upon which The Citadel was founded and has endured are presented artistically. The rifle and 30-caliber bullet symbolize the infantry, the other original department of military science at the college. Since duty and responsibility have their reward at The Citadel, that of being appointed a cadet officer in the first-class year, these ideals, too, are embodied in the ring by the sword, the symbol of the cadet officer.

An interesting tradition that has evolved in connection with the ring is the different manner in which cadets as distinguished from alumni wear it. Since cadets are eligible to wear rings upon becoming academic first-class cadets, they wear them with the class numerals facing toward the wearer. After graduation exercises, however, the rings are turned about. In 1940, the Ring Committees of the classes of 1940, 41, and 42 standardized The Citadel ring and approved by those classes. Standardization brings two distinct advantages. First, it makes The Citadel ring easy to recognize, since all graduating classes wear the same type of ring, and secondly, it denotes not a member of a certain class, but a Citadel graduate.

THE REGIMENTAL COLORS

The Regimental color, in use since 1937, is based on the South Carolina state flag with the words "The Citadel" above the palmetto tree and "The Military College of South Carolina" below the tree. Governor Richard M. Jeffries, on March 20, 1943, attached battle streamers to the pike of the regimental colors signifying that the Corps of Cadets had participated as a unit in several engagements during the Civil War.

BATTLE STREAMERS

The Adjutant General of South Carolina in General Order No. 3, dated October 26, 1942 noted that "the Corps of Cadets...during the years 1861 - 65, organized as "THE BATTALION OF STATE CADETS", rendered honorable and meritorious service to the State of South Carolina." In recognition, The Adjutant General authorizes and entitles The Citadel to carry on its colors a gray streamer embroidered in silver bearing the inscription "Confederate States Army" and a gray streamer embroidered in blue for the each of the following engagements.

Star of the West January 9, 1861
Wappoo Cut November 1861
James Island June 1862
Charleston and Vicinity July to October 1863
James Island June 1864
Tulifinny December 1864
James Island December 1864 to February 1865
Williamston May 1, 1865.

FLAGS

Garrison Flag, 38 feet X 20 feet -- used for holidays and specified important occasions.

Post Flag, 17 feet X 9 feet -- for general use.

Storm Flag, 9 feet X 5 feet -- used for stormy or windy weather.

The regiment carries three flags known respectively as the national, state, and regimental colors or standards. Each battalion carries a red battalion flag. Guidons are blue, swallowtail flags carried by each company with the letters "SCCC" and company letter on each. The only exception is the Palmetto Battery Guidon, which is red with the Artillery Branch symbol.

THE RED SOUTH CAROLINA FLAG ("Big Red")

"Big Red" is the official spirit flag of The Citadel Corps of Cadets and has been associated with the college since the beginning of the Civil War. In the weeks following South Carolinas withdrawal from the Union December 20, 1860, the citizenry flew a variety of "secession flags" throughout the new republic. The ladies of the Vincent family presented one such banner -- a red flag with a white palmetto in its center -- to a company of Citadel cadets stationed on Morris Island. According to the captain of the Star of the West, a red flag with the white palmetto flew above the battery that fired on his ship. After the Civil War, this red and white palmetto flag seems to have disappeared for almost a century.

In the fall of 1960, Romeo Company, as the honor company, used the red palmetto flag as a guidon in anticipation of the centennial reenactment of the firing on the Star of the West on January 9, 1961. Because the flag was much larger than a guidon it is probably when the term "Big Red" was first used to describe the flag, In recent decades, the Touchdown Cannon Crew carries "Big Red" and fires the cannons each time The Citadel's football team scores.

Since 1989, "Big Red" has replaced the Confederate Naval Jack that the cadets once waved at sporting events. You can also see "Big Red" flying daily near the center of The Citadel campus at the north end of the parade ground. A Civil War-era red palmetto flag - believed by some to be the actual flag that flew over Fort Morris when cadets fired upon the Star of the West - was unveiled in a ceremony during the 2010 Corps Day weekend. It is currently on loan from the Iowa Historical Society resides in The Holliday Alumni Center.

THE SALUTE

The salute is an honorable and well-respected greeting between members of the military services of this nation and our allies. During the early phases of your cadet training, you will receive detailed instructions on how, when, where, and whom to salute. This will include both the hand, rifle, and guidon (company ensign) salute. As general guidelines, the following rules, according to Army Training Circular 3-21.5, in most cases apply

- 1. Salute all commissioned and warrant officers, as well as officers of friendly foreign nations. The salute will be rendered whether on or off campus.
- 2. The junior-in-rank always salutes first, and the senior-in-rank returns it.
 - 3. In addition to the above, you will salute:
 - Recipients of the Congressional Medal of Honor.
 - When the U.S. National Anthem, "Taps"
 (at funerals), "To the Colors," "Ruffles and Flourishes," "Hail to the Chief," or foreign national anthems are played. If driving in a vehicle, come to a halt and remain seated until the above music is completed.
 - The American Flag (national colors) when uncased and carried in parades or ceremonies.
 - When reporting to an officer indoors.

- At "Reveille" and "Retreat" formations during the raising or lowering of the flag.
- In formations, salute only when directed by the person-in-charge.
- All officers in vehicles.

PERSONAL HONORS AND SALUTES

The salute to the Union, consisting of one round for each state, is fired on July 4, at every post provided with suitable artillery. The national salute and the salute to a national flag are twenty-one-gun salutes.

Music is considered an inseparable part of a gun salute, follows the ruffles, and flourishes without pause. The National Flag will not be dipped by way of salute or compliment. The Regimental color or standard will dip when the rank of the reviewing officer is that of a brigadier general or equivalent or above. During the playing of ruffles and flourishes and other music of the salute, all persons will stand at attention and salute, if in uniform. If in civilian clothes, remove hat, stand and salute with right hand over heart. Personal honors and salutes are as follows:

- President/ 21 / National Anthem
- Former President/ 21 / March
- Chief Magistrate or sovereign of a foreign country/ 21 / His or Her National Anthem
- Member of Royal Family/ 21 / His or Her National Anthem
- Vice-President /19 / March
- Ambassador /19 / March
- Secretary of Defense /19 / March
- General of the Army, Fleet Admiral, General of the Air Force /19 / General's March

VII. CAMPUS BUILDINGS AND MONUMENTS

Archives- The Citadel Archives were founded in 1966 when General Mark W. Clark donated his personal and military papers relating to his career in World War II, the Austrian Occupation, the Korean War, and presidency at The Citadel. Today, there are more than 300 collections, including papers of Citadel Presidents, institutional records and publications, letters, diaries, speeches, photographs, and audio and video recordings relating to The Citadel's history. Authors and scholars from the United States and Europe frequently visit the archives to research the collections. Located on the third floor of the Daniel Library building, the Archives are accessible by appointment.

Bastin Hall, the new home of the Tommy and Victoria Baker School of Business, is named for Rick ('65) and Mary Lee Bastin. The 44,000 square feet building houses state-of-the-art features including innovation, sales, and financial leadership labs, several flat and tiered classrooms, interview rooms, a 2,100 square feet common area, and a roof top terrace.

Bond Hall is named for Colonel O. J. Bond, ninth president of The Citadel, and it is the main academic and administrative building. It was completed in its present form in 1939. Bond Hall houses the offices of ITS, Multimedia, Admissions, the Registrar, and the Public Speaking Lab.

Byrd Hall is the Chemistry and Geology building, and is named for Colonel R. M. Byrd, Class of 1923, who served as head of the Chemistry Department from 1945 to 1956 and as academic dean from 1956 to 1966. It houses classrooms, offices, laboratories, and service areas for professors. It also contains a 175-seat auditorium named in honor of Colonel Samuel A. Wideman, Class of 1929, who was head of the Chemistry Department from 1956 to 1968.

Capers Hall was named in honor of two brothers: Brigadier General Ellison Capers, C.S.A., Citadel, Class of 1857 and former Chancellor of the University of the South, and Major Francis W. Capers, Superintendent of The Citadel from 1852 to 1859. It housed classrooms, and offices for English (including Fine Art), Mathematics, History, Modern Languages, Political Science, Education, Criminal Justice, and Psychology Departments. Cadet artwork was exhibited throughout the building. The south wing of Capers Hall was dedicated to the memory of Mr. Rodney Williams at the request of his wife, a prominent Citadel benefactress. Capers is currently undergoing reconstruction, and it is estimated that it will reopen in late 2023.

Career Center is located beside Bastin Hall at the corner of Huger Street and Hagood Avenue, technical address is 573 Huger Street. The Career Center is a resource to educate and empower students to become active participants in their professional success starting freshman year. It offers training and resources on all aspects of professional success, including career exploration, resume writing, recruiting events, alumni engagement, professional networking, interview skills, and more. The Career Center supports the development of an effective job search strategy and a four-year career-planning timeline which, when followed, leads to preparation for gainful employment by the time of graduation, or securing a competitive admission to graduate school at the time of graduation.

Coward Hall was opened in 1991 and is named for Colonel Asbury Coward, C.S.A., Class of 1854. It is located behind Padgett-Thomas Barracks and overlooks the Ashley River. Additional dining rooms plus rehearsal rooms for the Band, Bagpipes, and Chorale are located on the second floor.

Daniel Library was constructed in 1960 and is named in honor of the late Charles E. Daniel, Class of 1918, and the late R. Hugh Daniel, Class of 1929; both were lifelong benefactors of the college. For more information about the Library's resources and services, please consult page 82.

Duckett Hall is named for Major General James W. Duckett, Class of 1932, President of The Citadel from 1970-1974, and provides modern classrooms, laboratories, and offices for the Biology Department. The building is three stories high, with a greenhouse and an animal house on the roof.

Grimsley Hall, which replaced Alumni Hall in 1991, is named in honor of Maj. Gen. James A. Grimsley, Jr., Class of 1942 and the 16th President of The Citadel. The building is situated facing the north side of Summerall Field. Grimsley Hall houses both the Physics and Electrical Engineering Departments, Copeland Auditorium, a large theater-auditorium, computer room, and extensive laboratories. Grimsley Hall provides a modern and complete educational environment among the best available in the Southeast.

The Holliday Alumni Center is named in honor of John M.J. Holliday, Class of 1936 who served on the Board of Visitors for more than 30 years. The Holliday Alumni Center houses alumni and fund-raising organizations for The Citadel as well as a visitor's center, catering kitchen, banquet hall, and two courtyards. Each graduating class will have their senior dinner in the Courvoisie Banquet Hall and be introduced to the Alumni Network. The hall is named for Lieutenant Colonel T. Nugent Courvoisie (also known as "The Boo"), Class of 1938, who served as Assistant Commandant from 1961-1968. The Alumni Center also houses The Citadel Foundation, a nonprofit organization created to secure, manage, and steward philanthropic support for the college.

Jenkins Hall, which is situated next to Thompson Hall, is named for Brigadier General Micah Jenkins, C.S.A., Class of 1854, who founded King's Mountain Military School in Yorkville, South Carolina. Jenkins Hall houses the Departments of Aerospace Studies, Military Science, and Naval Science, the offices for Air Force, Army, Marine and Navy ROTC, the Commandant's office, classrooms and supply rooms. In addition, the Cadet Corps' arms room is in Jenkins Hall.

LeTellier Hall was constructed in 1937 and is named for Colonel Louis Shepherd LeTellier who became acting President of The Citadel after General Charles P. Summerall retired in 1953. Colonel LeTellier held the office of president until replaced by General Mark Clark in 1954. This building is home to all the offices, classrooms, and laboratories of the Civil Engineering Department. In addition to state of the art equipment, one of the largest hydraulic testing machines in the South has been installed in the laboratories.

Mark Clark Hall was built in 1957 and is named for General Mark W. Clark. The building houses The Citadel Bookstore, The Citadel Marketplace, barber shop, and post office which are located on the first floor. You can also find an ATM near the 1st floor stairwell. The Department of Cadet Activities and Buyer Auditorium are located on the second floor. Also on the second floor is the Greater Issues Room (Room 230), meeting room 228, and the Commandants Department Conference Room. The third floor of the building has a Catholic chapel, the office of the Catholic Chaplain, the office of the Episcopal Chaplain, the Honor Courtroom, and quarters for distinguished guests of The Citadel.

Medical University of South Carolina (MUSC) Clinic at The Citadel, (also known as the Mary B. Murray Memorial Infirmary), was completed in 1922 and was named for the wife of Mr. A.B. Murray, who donated funds for the construction of the clinic. It contains laboratory, pharmacy, & X-Ray facilities. The clinic has @ 35 in-patient beds and the medical and administrative staff provide 24 hour coverage.

Summerall Chapel, was constructed from 1936-1937 and officially dedicated in 1938. The Chapel serves as a sanctuary for worship, reflection, and remembrance. While designed in a specifically Christian cruciform style, Summerall Chapel belongs to no particular denomination. After the completion of the Chapel, each class (through 67 the Class of 1945) had the opportunity to purchase a window as a lasting memorial to its members. The chancel window, located behind the altar, was dedicated in 1942 as a memorial to all Citadel cadets and graduates who have given their lives for their country. The facade and transept windows are made up of smaller "medallions" provided by families and friends of those they commemorate. Only Citadel cadets, along with a few distinguished faculty and staff, are so honored. The design of each medallion represents the person it commemorates. The Eternal Flame above the main altar also memorializes The Citadel's patriot dead. St. Alban's Episcopal Chapel occupies the north transept. The inscription adorning the front of the Chapel reads "Remember Now Thy Creator in the Days of Thy Youth." This exhortation from Ecclesiastes 12:1 sets the spiritual tone for cadets at The Citadel.

The Thomas Dry Howie Memorial Carillon Bell Tower and Columbarium was initially donated to The Citadel by two alumni, Charles E. Daniel, Class of 1918, and R. Hugh Daniel, Class of 1929, in tribute to their friend, Major Thomas Dry Howie, Class of 1929. The Citadel carillon is a set of bronze bells tuned to intervals of the chromatic scale with a possible range of seven octaves. Made up of 59 bells, it is one of the largest Dutch bell installations in the Western Hemisphere with a total weight of 30,300 pounds. Cast in the famous Royal Bergen Bell foundries at Heiligerlee, The Netherlands, the smallest bell is 25 pounds while the largest – known as "The Great Bourdon" - weighs 4,400 pounds! The bells are hung in a stationary position and can be played from a concert keyboard of two manuals. When not being played, the carillon is equipped with a Westminster chime which strikes every quarter-hour. At 90 feet high, the Bell Tower is one of the tallest structures on campus, topping the Chapel by 35 feet. In 2007, a columbarium which houses the ashes of deceased Citadel alumni was added to the tower through the generosity of the Class of 1957.

ATHLETIC FACILITIES

Altman Athletic Center, adjacent to Johnson Hagood Stadium, was dedicated in October 2001 and made possible by a gift from the Altman family in memory of LTC William M. Altman, Jr., Class of 1931. The first floor provides home and visiting team locker rooms along with additional facilities for officials. The second floor features custom hospitality space that overlooks Johnson Hagood Stadium from the south end zone.

College Park was leased from the City in 1966, and served as home to The Citadel baseball team for over a quarter century until the opening of Riley Park in 1997. College Park now serves as a practice facility for the baseball team.

Deas Hall, built in 1976 and renovated in 2003, is named for Colonel A. 'Happy' Deas, Jr., Class of 1938. The offices, classrooms, and laboratories of the Department of Health and Human Performance (HHP) are located in this building. Deas Hall also houses facilities used by Intramural, Club, and Recreational Athletics. Facilities include an 8-lane, 25-meter swimming pool, basketball/multipurpose gymnasium, racquetball/handball courts, mat room, two weight rooms, cardio fitness area, sports equipment room, showers, and a locker for each member of the Corps. Fourth Class cadets may use all of the building's athletic facilities.

Johnson Hagood Stadium is named for Brigadier General Johnson Hagood, Class of 1847, who was chair of the Board of Visitors from 1877 to 1898. Originally finished in 1948, it had a seating capacity of 22,343. Today it is under renovation and currently seats 11,500 with plans to build more. All home football games are played in this stadium, in which the Corps of Cadets has a special seating section.

Mascot Monument- A long line of bulldogs have served The Citadel as mascots. There is a memorial to their service located at left side of Johnson Hagood Stadium on Hagood Avenue. The Class of 1968 "Big Dog" monument is located nearby.

McAlister Field House, originally constructed in 1939, contains the offices of the Athletic Director and staff. Formerly known as The Citadel Armory, it is named for Colonel David S. McAlister, Class of 1924, on March 16, 1973. Its basketball court provides facilities for The Citadel's basketball program.

Riley Park is a 6,000 seat state-of-the-art facility named for the Honorable Joseph P. Riley, Class of 1964, Mayor of Charleston. The Citadel plays all of its home baseball games in this park, located just off the campus. The Citadel shares the facility with the Charleston Riverdogs Baseball Team, the Class A affiliate of the New York Yankees.

Seignious Hall, dedicated in 1982, is named for Lieutenant General George M. Seignious II, Class of 1942, who served as president of the college from 1974-1979. Housed in this modern structure are offices for the football coaching staff, weight-lifting and workout equipment, a conference room, and the Sports Medicine training room, with sophisticated hydrotherapy and other modern rehabilitative equipment.

Vandiver Hall was dedicated in 1991 and is named for Colonel Thomas C. Vandiver, Class of 1929. Colonel Vandiver served on the Board of Visitors for 33 years and received an honorary Doctor of Law degree in 1979, followed by the Palmetto Award in 1986. The building is situated between Seignious Hall and McAlister Field House. The first floor provides dressing rooms for The Citadel soccer, wrestling, track/cross country, and golf teams as well as offices for the coaches. Also on the first floor are shower facilities, locker rooms for women's athletic teams, and a conference room. The second floor holds a wrestling practice area, a golf practice area, and a batting area for the baseball team.

The Swain Boating Center provides a pavilion and docks for The Citadel community to enjoy our beautiful waterfront. Originally "The Citadel Yacht Club", it has been in existence since the 1920s and provides gathering facilities and a small fleet of power and sailboats available for use by Citadel Cadets and Graduate Students, faculty and staff and their qualifying dependents who have passed the South Carolina Basic Boating Course and The Citadel Boating Safety Boating Course. For more information visit https://www.citadel.edu/swain-boating-center/.

CADET BARRACKS

There are five large barracks used to house the Corps of Cadets. Barracks and room assignments are based on the Company and Battalion to which each cadet is assigned.

Murray Barracks (1st BN) was built in 1999 and named for Andrew B. Murray, who donated the money to build the original Murray Barracks (1926). The original barracks stood on the same site and was demolished in 1997, making way for the current building which houses first battalion.

Padgett-Thomas Barracks (2nd BN) occupied the space between Murray and Law Barracks. The original barracks was completed in 1922 and was replaced and reopened in 2004. It was named for Colonel J. G. Padgett, a member of the Board of Visitors and an 1892 graduate, and for Colonel John Pulaski Thomas, Class of 1893, member of the Board of Visitors from 1915-1949, and its chair from 1925-1949. The building, which served as a model for all the barracks, is designed so that the center is a pared quadrangle onto which each room opens, and in each of the four corners is a spiral stairway. Adjacent to the east sally port is the guard room. The dominant feature of the barracks is the tower that overlooks the parade ground to the east.

Law Barracks (3rd BN) is named for Brigadier General Evander M. Law, C.S.A., Class of 1856. The original structure was completed in 1939. This building was torn down, and its replacement was completed in the fall of 2006.

Watts Barracks (4th BN) was built in 1996 as part of a long-range program to update cadet living quarters. This new barracks is named for Lieutenant General Claudius E. Watts III, Class of 1958, who served as The Citadel President from 1989-1996.

Stevens Barracks (5th BN) is the last of the original barracks. Because the rapidly expanding enrollment of The Citadel brought about the necessity for additional quarters, funds were obtained in 1942 for its construction. This barracks was named for Major P. F. Stevens, Class of 1849, Superintendent of The Citadel from 1859-1861.

CAMPUS GATES & MONUMENTS

Lesesne Gate, consisting of imposing limestone pillars and wrought iron gates, provides the main access to The Citadel campus. The gate is named for Thomas Petigru Lesesne, Class of 1901, who was instrumental in the move of The Citadel from its original site on Marion Square to its present location.

Summerall Gate, named for former Citadel President General Charles Pelot Summerall, is located adjacent to Mark Clark Hall. It is one of Charleston's famous sword gates, whose companion is found at 32 Legare Street.

The Tau Beta Pi Monument, Or "Bent," is a bronze replica of the emblem of the National Engineering Honor Society. Its supporting structure is the frustum of a pyramid of blue-gray granite, resembling in color the traditional cadet uniform. Located in front of Grimsley Hall, the "Bent" commemorates the Tau Beta Pi ideals of distinguished scholarship and exemplary character.

The Seraph Monument is a memorial consisting of relics from the H.M.S. Seraph, including the periscope and a forward torpedo loading hatch. Both the U.S. and British flags fly from the structure to symbolize that this English submarine was placed under the command of an American naval officer for a special mission during World War II. It is the only shore installation in the U.S. permitted to fly the Royal Navy Ensign. The H.M.S. Seraph also secretly landed General Mark Clark in North Africa for an intelligence mission. This monument is dedicated to Anglo-American cooperation during World War II.

The Bulldog Monument is a memorial dedicated to Major Sam M. Savas, Jr., Class of 1951, who died in Vietnam in October 1965. He served his Alma Mater as tactical officer from 1962 to 1965. As a cadet and while assigned to The Citadel, he so inspired Citadel cadets toward dedication to their Alma Mater that upon his death, cadet members of the Society of American Military Engineers determined to erect the monument in his honor. It also contains a bronze plaque in memory of his naval aviator son, Lieutenant Sam M. Savas III, Class of 1979. who also died in service to his country in October 1985. The Bulldog Monument is made from brass belt buckles, waist plates, and breast plates collected from cadets. In 1966 the monument was unveiled. It is located on the southeast corner of McAlister Field House. supervised by a cadet sergeant, are assigned the duty of shining the monument in accordance with the direction of the Chain of Command.

The Star of The West Monument is dedicated to the memory of the cadets who fired on the Star of the West in 1861 and to all Citadel cadets and graduates who have died in defense of their country. Inscribed on the monument are the names of those cadets who have annually won the Star of the West Medal for individual drill competition. The monument was dedicated in 1961 and is located between Bond Hall and the central flagpole.

Beta Gamma Sigma's Honor Key bronze replica is located in front of Bond Hall near the east entrance. Beta Gamma Sigma is an international honor society recognizing the outstanding academic achievements of students enrolled in collegiate business programs accredited by AACSB, The International Association for Management Education. This is a select group of over 1,400 educational institutions offering business and management degrees, only 300 are eligible to have Beta Gamma Sigma chapters.

General Mark W. Clark's Grave Site, by General Clark's choice and with the approval of the Board of Visitors and the General Assembly of South Carolina, is on The Citadel campus. General Clark was the second man to serve as President Emeritus of The Citadel and is the only person buried on campus. The grave site General Clark selected is between Mark Clark Hall and Summerall Chapel, near the Carillon Tower.

The Citadel War Memorial, located adjacent to Summerall Chapel, centered on the Thomas Dry Howie Carillion, and encompassing the grave of General Mark W. Clark is The Citadel War Memorial. "When country calls, The Citadel answers. The brave warriors immortalized here honor all who went before and who follow. Duty done, they rest so we may live free. Speak softly in the company of heroes." These words written by noted author and member of the class of 1967, John Warley, greet the visitor at the entrance of the memorial. In October 2017, on the fifty year anniversary of the Class of 1967, the vision of that class came to fruition with the dedication of The Citadel War Memorial. A five-year effort from concept to construction, it is the most comprehensive listing of Citadel alumni who have made the supreme sacrifice in the nation's conflicts from the Mexican-American war to the present.

Rather than listed alphabetically by class as with other memorials on campus, the 760 names currently on the memorial are arranged by conflict and listed randomly so that each might be read by someone whether looking for a friend or classmate, or family member. They are more than just names on a wall. Each individual has a connection to the college whether they were a graduate or a cadet for a short time. Each of them has a story.

Opposite the names are four panels, which tell the story of The Citadel from its founding to the present and provide the visitor with a sense of The Citadel's concept of the values of Honor, Duty, and Respect and service to the nation.

OTHER MONUMENTS

On the parade ground, there are monuments dedicated to each of the four services. They are a Marine Landing craft (LVT-H-6); an Army Sherman Tank (M4A3); an Army missile (Corporal); an Air Force Jet (F4-C Phantom II), flown by Lt. Gen. Ellie "Buck" Schuler, Class of 1959, USAF (Ret.), during the war in Vietnam; an AH-1 Cobra helicopter, and; a Navy anchor from the U.S.S. Coral Sea. A United States Coast Guard bell serves as a monument to Citadel cadets and graduates who have lost their lives upon the sea.

Along the Avenue of Remembrance and on Summerall Field (parade ground), memorial trees honor the memory of individual Citadel graduates. A small plaque by each tree gives the name of each graduate so honored.

Memorial plaques on Summerall Chapel list the names of all graduates killed in action in each war from the Civil War to the present.

VIII. CADET SUPPORT SERVICES

TAC Officers and NCOs - Each company and battalion is assigned an experienced military officer or non-commissioned officer as a "TAC." These personnel "teach, advise, and coach" cadets as they develop as principled leaders, and are the primary integrators of a cadet's leadership development. They also perform a series of functions to connect cadets to the resources they need to be successful.

Company Advisor - Each cadet company is assigned a specially chosen member of the faculty or staff who works closely with the Company TACs and the cadet chain-of-command (primarily the Company Academic Officer) to ensure that academic and military requirements are compatible and that cadets are aware of academic resources and services available to them on the campus.

Cadet Academic Officer - The Academic Officer promotes academic excellence by mentoring and advising cadets in their company and battalion concerning academic performance at The Citadel. These cadets monitor the class absence system as well as the academics of all cadets in the company and battalion, focusing on freshmen, sophomores, and cadets on academic probation. In addition, these officers work with the chain of command to establish an environment conducive to studying and learning by: enforcing the rules and guidelines of Evening Study Period (ESP); modeling exemplary study/academic behavior; answering academic questions as well as other issues; and providing an opportunity for cadets, (especially freshmen) to understand academic policies and guidelines as well as academic and college resources. Also, these officers coordinate job functions/duties with the TACs through email or frequent meetings. Finally with considerable autonomy, the Academic Officer reports to the Associate Provost for Academic Affairs and is relied upon to exercise independent judgment when making decisions and to maintain confidentiality.

The Student Success Center (SSC) provides subject area tutoring, academic coaching, math lab, writing lab, and public speaking lab. It also provides services for student athletes and students with disabilities. A computer lab and printing services are available to all students. For further information on the Student Support Center services and how to make an appointment, see the webpage at https://www.citadel.edu/ssc/.

The Services for Students with Disabilities Office is housed in the Student Success Center (117 Thompson Hall). Students with documented disabilities, or students who think they my have a disability, are encouraged to contact the office as soon as possible to discuss accommodations and supports. Students can self-report at any time. For additional information, please see our webpage at http://www.citadel.edu/root/asc-disability-services.

The Counseling Center provides free, confidential, face to face, short-term counseling services to currently enrolled cadets. In addition, the My Group Student Assistance Program provides free, confidential telehealth services including counseling (video, telephone, or in person) and a 24 hour a day, 7 day a week telephone hotline. Cadets are encouraged to access these services for personal concerns such as stress and anxiety, depression, and relationship concerns. For additional information, visit the Counseling Center web page at http://www.citadel.edu/root/counselingcenter, visit the Counseling Center at 203 Richardson Avenue behind the Bond Hall, or call 843-953-6799. Cadets can also contact My Group directly for telehealth counseling and hotline support at their web page at https://www.mygroup.com/services/eap/student-assistance-program/, or call 800-633-3353.

The Ombudsperson Office at The Citadel provides a neutral party who helps Citadel cadets, CGC students, parents of cadets and students, faculty, and staff resolve disputes and concerns informally and confidentially. When possible, the ombudsperson will work to settle grievances and seek solutions to problems outside the college's formal problem resolution systems. In general terms, the Ombudsperson Office provides visitors the opportunity to safely share issues and discover as many possible resolution paths as possible. As such, the greatest benefits tend to be yielded by visitors who use these services in the early stages of a growing issue. For more information, or to begin discussing a problem contact anyone of The Citadel's Ombudspersons:

- MAJ Shamus Gillen, 953-7698, Holliday Alumni Center- CAA Offices
- Dr. Lee Westberry, 953-5188, 237 Bond Hall
- Col John A. Robinson, Jr., 953-4822, 369 Bond Hall

The Campus Alcohol and Other Drug Information Center (CADIC) CADIC provides alcohol, tobacco, and other drug misuse prevention services and programs. All services and programs are free; individual, one-onone services are private and confidential. For additional information, visit the CADIC web page at http://www.citadel.edu/root/cadic or visit CADIC in Mark Clark Hall, Room 217, above Starbucks. For immediate assistance you can email the director at kmodglin@citadel.edu or cadic@citadel.edu or you can call/text him at 843-813-6326.

Campus Advocacy, Response, and Education (CARE) provides programs to cadets on matters relating to sexual assault, sexual harassment, relationship issues, and bystander intervention. Additionally, the CARE director and advocate is on call 24/7 to support cadets who believe they, or someone they know, has been sexually assaulted, harrassed, or a victim of interpersonal violence. Advocacy services include information and options for reporting, medical care, counseling, and on-campus modifications, if applicable, and support for claimants throughout the administrative process. For more information, call 706-358-6192 or see CARE's web page at http://www.citadel.edu/care.

Multicultural Student Services works to ensure that educational equity for all students is achieved and that an environment that appreciates cultural and diversity exists at The Citadel. Further information regarding this office can be found at https://www.citadel.edu/miss/.

The Krause Center for Leadership and Ethics creates and advances Citadel-focused leadership programs, ethics education, and community engagement to develop principled leaders. The Krause Center delivers Leadership (LDRS) courses in support of the Four-Year Academic Leadership Curriculum, leads the Service Learning and Community Engagement program, and executes The Citadel's Annual Leadership Day. The Krause Center also provides students, including first-year cadets, with opportunities to delve into ethical decision making. The Krause Center supports The Citadel's Ethics Bowl team and annual one-day Ethics Colloquium. For more information go to http://www.citadel.edu/root/krausecenter.

The Medical University of South Carolina (MUSC) Clinic at The Citadel provides routine and urgent medical care through Sick Call and several outpatient clinics, as well as inpatient care (36 beds), for cadet members of the SC Corps of Cadets. Further information regarding the Clinic can be found on the Cadet Life tab of The Citadel's webpage.

Daniel Library serves the information and research needs of Citadel students, faculty, and staff. The Library provides access to print and electronic resources, research assistance, study rooms, quiet spaces, desktop and laptop computers, printing, 3-D Printing (in the Makerspace) faxing, scanning, and more. Starbucks and vending machines are also available. The Citadel Archives & Museum are located on the third floor. Visit library.citadel.edu or call 843-953-2569 to chat with a librarian, reserve a study room, or find resources for an assignment. Library services are comprehensively described at http://library.citadel.edu/home.

The Career Center educates and empowers students to become active participants in their professional success starting their freshmen year. The Career Center uses development, training and resources to enable students to create and execute a career plan. It is located by Bastin Hall at the corner of Huger Street and Hagood Avenue. The physical address is 573 Huger Street. Visit citadel.edu/career for more information and start career planning today.

Public Speaking Lab helps cadets and others in The Citadel community learn to speak with confidence and clarity, gaining skills that will serve them well throughout their lives. Coaching and video equipment is available to assist those wanting to improve their public speaking skills and the materials they use in presentations. The lab is located in 365 Bond Hall. The lab also sponsors The El Cid Toastdawgs, The Citadel's public speaking club. Visit www.citadel.edu/psl for more information.

Communications & Support Services is located in Bond Hall, room 253. You may contact Communications by calling 953-TELE (8353) or sending email to telecom@citadel.edu.

Bulldog Alert is The Citadel's Emergency Notification System. This communication tool provides for rapid notification through text messaging, phone call/voice mail or email — or a combination of those — indicating a campus crisis or emergency. Cadets can enter their information for Bulldog Alert by logging into Lesesne Gateway and navigating to the Student Tab to update their personal information. For those who register to receive text messages from Bulldog Alert, please note that your cell phone provider may require you to accept the message and agree to any cost charged by your cell provider.

100% Confidential Chaplain Counseling is available daily to all cadets who request assistance. Additionally, over 20 campus ministers and volunteers are available to provide pastoral care and counseling.

INTRAMURAL, CLUB AND RECREATIONAL ATHLETICS (ICRA)

The purpose of the ICRA program is to provide and promote safe and healthful means for competition, exercise, physical fitness, and recreational pursuits for students, faculty and staff. ICRA is a division of the Department of Human Performance (HHP)

Intramural Athletics- Citadel Intramurals are an integral part of cadet life with year-long competitive activities in individual sports and cadet company team sports. Cadet companies compete annually for the Board of Visitors Trophy, awarded to the Commanding Officer of the company accumulating the most intramural points.

Club Sports- Citadel Club Sports provides structure for student-run competitive sport teams not governed by the NCAA or Southern Conference, and other sports-related activities that may not be fully supported by the academics of HHP or events of Citadel Intramurals. Club Sport athletes are not part of Corps Squad.

Physical Recreation- The primary purpose of Deas Hall is to provide instructional support for students in the Department of HHP and support activities of Intramural Athletics and Club Sports. Deas Hall is otherwise available to all students, faculty and staff.

More information can be found at: www.citadel.edu/icra

X. CADET ACTIVITIES AND ORGANIZATIONS

Apart from the military and educational duties that cadets must participate in daily, extracurricular activities and organizations exist to suit the needs of every cadet. Although some of these organizations are reserved for upper-class cadets, others for those with high gradepoint averages, and others for those with specific majors, there are a multitude of activities that the new cadet may participate in to diversify and enrich each cadet's experience at The Citadel.

MAJOR WEEKENDS

Parents' Day is held in October. This weekend marks the end of the freshman Cadre Training Period. 4th Class cadets are promoted from "Recruit" to "Private" and accepted into the Corps of Cadets. Seniors, 1st Class Cadets, who are academically eligible, receive their class rings. Parents' Day includes open barracks where family and friends can visit in cadet rooms, a performance by the Pipe Band, the Kelly Cup Finals, a Regimental Band concert, and a dress parade in honor of all cadet parents. Lunch is available for the cadets, their families and other guests followed by a Bulldog Football game.

Homecoming, held in late October or November, is a weekend when alumni return to The Citadel to renew old friendships and visit the campus of their alma mater. The honored class is that of the 50th Year Reunion among others. Various events are scheduled throughout the weekend beginning on Friday with the Twilight Parade where the Corps of Cadets marches in silence to remember those alumni who have given the ultimate sacrifice for their country as the sun sets along the Ashley River. The next morning features open barracks, a performance by the Pipe Band and Summerall Guards followed by a dress parade in honor of all alumni and a Bulldog football game.

Corps Day, the birthday of the Corps of Cadets, is scheduled in March to celebrate the day in 1843 when the first cadets reported to The Citadel on Marion Square. The barracks are opened with a performance by the Pipe Band followed by the exchange of rifles from the old to the new Summerall Guards. The Corps Day Jeep Review tops the morning with the presentation of The Citadel Palmetto Medals. The 4th Class Recognition events are also part of this weekend which end with "the Knob System is no longer in effect." Upperclassmen shake hands with the freshmen and share their first names. The Gold Star Journal, the college scholarly journal, and The Shako, the literary magazine, are distributed this weekend. Corps Day is the last major weekend prior to graduation.

Commencement Week, actually only 3.5 days, the period immediately after final exams and through Commencement Exercises, includes the legendary "Star of the West – Best Drilled Cadet" competition, the Annual Awards Convocation, and the Baccalaureate Service. On Friday the Long Gray Line Parade features the last review for the graduating seniors who cross the field and receive the Corps of Cadets as they pass-in-review. The Citadel President and First Lady host a Garden Party following the parade for graduates and their families.

On Saturday the underclasses of cadets are released for summer furlough and the seniors return to campus for commencement exercises.

SUPPORT ACTIVITIES

Blood Drives - The American Red Cross, in cooperation with the Department of Cadet Activities, works closely with the community in coordinating blood drives. These blood drives are held in Buyer Auditorium monthly during the academic year. Competitions for donating the most blood are held amongst the cadet companies and between cross town college rivals.

The Citadel Fine Arts Program - Since its inception in 1965, the Fine Arts Series provides the Corps with an introduction to cultural pursuits by presenting a wide variety of programs. Third- and Fourth Class cadets are required to attend one event per semester in order to be academically proficient.

FAITH BASED ACTIVITIES

The college years are exciting times of growth and challenge in all areas of life, including faith. All people put faith in something: religion, personal convictions, philosophical ideology, themselves, etc. The primary purpose of the Chaplaincy is to protect and enable the free exercise of religion for the entire campus community while ensuring all members are empowered and cared for on their faith journey. The Chaplain, as the Director of Religious Activities, and larger chapel team are committed to caring for every student and ensuring access to worship and spiritual growth opportunities for all.

Regimental and Battalion Cadet Chaplains are imbedded in the barracks along with cadet chaplain assistants. They work closely with the Chaplains, serving as resources and advocates to all cadets as an extension of the Chapel ministry to the Corps.

THE CADET PRAYER

Almighty God, the source of light and strength, we implore Thy blessing on this our beloved institution, that it may continue true to its high purposes. Guide and strengthen those upon whom rests the authority of government; enlighten with wisdom those who teach and those who learn; and grant to all of us that through sound learning and firm leadership, we may prove ourselves worthy citizens of our country, devoted to truth, given to unselfish service, loyal to every obligation of life and above all to Thee.

Preserve us faithful to the ideals of The Citadel, sincere in fellowship, unswerving in duty, finding joy in purity, and confidence through a steadfast faith.

Grant to each one of us, in his (her) own life, a humble heart, a steadfast purpose, and a joyful hope, with a readiness to endure hardship and suffer if need be, that truth may prevail among us and that Thy will may be done on earth.

Through Jesus Christ, Our Lord. Amen.

(Composed for the Centennial by Bishop Albert S. Thomas, Ret., First Honor Graduate, Class of 1892)

CADET CHOIRS

The Gospel Choir, Catholic Choir, Worship Team, and Cadet Chorale provide opportunities for students to share their musical gifts both on and off campus. The groups are ambassadors for the college, singing in Summerall Chapel, local churches, at civic functions, and occasionally on tours. They also participate in the widely acclaimed Christmas Candlelight Service. Choir directors and the campus organist provide professional training, direction, and musical accompaniment for these superb musical groups.

FAITH GROUPS

Three Christian congregations provide on-campus services: Protestant (Sunday at 0900), Catholic (Sunday at 1700,), and Anglican (Monday at 1830). In addition to these services, various faith groups meet on Monday and Thursday evenings at 1830 for worship, religious instruction, meditation, and fellowship. Typically, denominational faith group meetings are held each Monday evening and para-church groups meet each Thursday evening. While attending chapel and campus religious activities is optional, all cadets are encouraged to explore their faith as a part of their personal growth and development. Please note that Monday and Thursday 1830-1945 are specifically designated for faith-based activities and you are free to attend as part of your religious right (free exercise of religion).

Campus Faith Groups include:

African Methodist Episcopal

Anglican

Baptist Collegiate Ministry Catholic

Charleston Wesley Foundation (United Methodist)

Catholic Campus Ministry

Episcopal

Jewish Student Union (Hillel)

Latter-Day Saints

Lutheran Student Movement (ELCA)

Muslim Student Association

Orthodox Christian Fellowship

Presbyterian Student Association (PCUSA)

Reformed Campus Fellowship

Interdenominational Groups include:

Campus Outreach

Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA)

The Navigators

VALOR (Campus Crusade for Christ Military Ministry)

Young Life

In addition numerous churches, synagogues, mosques and other houses of worship provide weekly opportunities for worship off campus. Contact the chapel office for more information (843-953-5049).

ON CAMPUS WORSHIP SERVICES

Cadets are invited to attend worship services on campus and participate in a faith group to develop their moral and spiritual values.

Throughout the school year, there are weekly Catholic and Protestant services of worship on Sundays and an Anglican worship service on Monday evenings. Hours of services are:

- Sunday/0900 Non-Denominational Christian Worship Service, Summerall Chapel
- Sunday/1600- Catholic Sacrament of Reconciliation 1700- Catholic Mass, Summerall Chapel
- Monday/1830 Anglican Holy Eucharist, Summerall Chapel

Jewish and Muslim worship services are provided weekly off campus for cadets of these faiths

In addition to regularly scheduled worship, Summerall Chapel is open daily to all for prayer, rest, and meditation.

CADET CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS

Numerous extracurricular clubs and organizations including those related to academics, religious and athletic activities, honor societies and military organizations, are available to cadets to provide an experiential learning component and to pursue leisure activities. For a complete listing, please contact or visit the Department of Cadet Activities in Mark Clark Hall, room 211.

CADET PUBLICATIONS

The Brigadier -- The Brigadier, the online newspaper of the Corps of Cadets, reports on activities and events at The Citadel. Features, sports articles, editorials, and satire make this paper interesting not only to cadets but to parents and alumni as well.

The Gold Star Journal - The Student Scholarly Journal of The Corps of Cadets and The Citadel Graduate College -- promotes academic excellence at The Citadel through the publication of cross-disciplinary, nonfiction papers. Selected works demonstrate effective writing, research skills, and critical thinking. Any student may submit nonfiction papers from any discipline to the journal and/or serve on the staff. The five to eight published works, which are selected by the staff, demonstrate quality writing and research. Since the first issue in 1997, the journal has been published for Corps Day distribution.

The Guidon -- The Guidon is published annually as a source of information to Fourth Class cadets.

The Honor Manual -- The Honor Manual explains the Cadet Honor System, its policies, trial procedures, appeal procedures, and all details necessary for cadets to effectively abide by The Citadel's Honor Code.

The Shako -- The Shako, the literary magazine of The Citadel, is published once a year by a cadet staff and has been hailed as one of the best magazines of its type in the state. All cadets may submit poems, stories, articles, works of art, and book reviews for publication.

The Sphinx -- The Sphinx, the yearbook of The Citadel, is one of the major publications of the Corps of Cadets. The Sphinx, which gives a picture of the activities of the Corps, faculty and staff, is a lasting tribute to those who join the ranks of The Citadel's alumni.

XI. HONORS AND AWARDS

Excellence is recognized at The Citadel. Industrious cadets who prove to be outstanding in any field or endeavor - military, academic, athletic, or cultural - will find that they are eligible for a number of awards and honors which are presented at various times of the year.

The awards listed below are only representative of the many honors cadets may obtain during their careers at The Citadel. In addition to the awards listed, academic departments have their own awards that recognize, outstanding achievement, performance and excellence in each specific field.

ACADEMIC HONORS AND AWARDS

Summa Cum Laude is awarded to those graduating cadets who have attained an overall grade point average between 3.9 and 4.0.

Magna Cum Laude is awarded to those graduating cadets who have attained an overall grade point average between 3.7 and 3.89.

Cum Laude is awarded to those graduating cadets who have attained an overall grade point average between 3.5 and 3.69.

Departmental Honors and School Honors are awarded on recommendation of deans or department heads to those members of the graduating class who have excelled in their major.

Gold Stars are awarded to those cadets on the Dean's List who have made a grade point average of 3.7 or higher for the work of a semester. Stars are worn on the collars of the full dress and dress uniforms and above the right shirt pocket of the summer leave uniform.

The Dean's List is recognition given to those cadets registered for twelve or more semester hours whose grade point average is 3.20 or higher, with no grade below C, for the previous semester's work. Medals are worn on uniforms the following semester.

The President's List is the most distinguished awards list on which a cadet can be placed. It indicates excellence in academics and military. The President's List is a combination of the Dean's List and the Commandant's Distinguished List.

The Commandant's Distinguished Service List is composed of cadets who contribute the most to their companies and who have excellent military, discipline, physical fitness, and academic records. Recipients are chosen at all levels by cadet leadership and TACs.

COMPANY AWARDS

The President's Cup is awarded annually to the cadet company earning the highest overall score in the areas of academics, military bearing, physical effectiveness, freshman retention, Regimental Commander's Bowl, and service learning of the previous school year. It is the highest honor that can be won by a cadet company.

The Board of Visitors Trophy is awarded annually to the cadet company accumulating the most points in intramural competition and physical fitness testing.

The Charles P. Summerall Cup is presented annually by the Provost of the College to the cadet company with the highest grade point average as calculated from all classes of cadets assigned for the fall and spring semesters of the previous school year. This is the top unit academic award and is one of the criteria for the President's Cup.

The Commandant's Cup is presented each year by the Commandant of Cadets to the company which earns the highest marks in the area of military bearing as determined by the Commandant. Points are earned in the fall and spring semesters of the previous school year. This is the top unit military award and is one of the criteria for the President's Cup.

The Kelly Cup is awarded to the best drilled freshman squad in the fall semester. All companies enter and complete through a series of preliminary stages. The top 4 companies perform during Parent's Weekend and the award is presented at the Parent's Day Review by the Regimental Commander.

The Regimental Commander's Bowl is awarded to the company earning top marks during the Cadre Training Period. Points are based on freshmen performance in military performance, knob knowledge, squad competition, physical fitness test scores, and retention. The award is presented at the Parent's Day Review by the Regimental Commander.

The Milton A. Pearlstine Award is presented to the cadet company achieving the highest freshman grade point average for the previous fall and spring terms. It is presented by the Provost.

The Murray D. Bonnoitt Award is presented to the cadet company that achieves the highest freshman retention rate for the previous fall and spring terms. It is presented by the Commandant of Cadets.

XII. REQUIRED FOURTH CLASS KNOWLEDGE

Members of the Fourth Class will be tested on the following definitions and Citadel information throughout the Fourth Class year. The tracking log for recording proficiency falls after the index at the end of The Guidon. The required knowledge is:

DURING CHALLENGE WEEK:

What are The Citadel's Core Values?

Sir/Ma'am, The Citadel's Core Values are Honor, Duty, and Respect.

What is The Citadel Alma Mater?*

Sir/Ma'am, The Citadel's Alma Mater is as follows:

Oh, Citadel, we sing thy fame

For all the world to hear,

And in the paths our fathers showed us

Follow without fear.

Peace and Honor, God and Country,

We will fight for thee.

Oh, Citadel, we praise thee now

And in Eternity.

Oh, Citadel, though strife surrounds us,

We will ever be

Full conscious of the benefits

That we derive from thee.

Stand forever, yielding never

To the tyrant's Hell

We'll never cease our struggles for

Our mighty Citadel.

What did John Stuart Mill say about war?

Sir/Ma'am, John Stuart Mill's quote is as follows, "War is an ugly thing, but not the ugliest of things; the decayed and degraded state of moral and patriotic feelings which thinks that nothing is worth war is much worse. A man who has nothing for which he is willing to fight, nothing which is more important than his own personal safety, is a miserable creature and has no chance of being free unless made and kept so by the exertions of better men than himself."

END OF 1ST SEMESTER THROUGH RECOGNITION DAY:

What does CTM stand for?

Sir/Ma'am, CTM stands for Citadel Training Model.

What are the five steps of CTM?

Sir/Ma'am, the five steps of CTM are Expectations, Skills, Feedback, Consequences, and Growth.

What is General Clark's honor quote?

Sir/Ma'am, General Clark's quote is as follows, "Honor is the capacity to control the instinctive selfishness that lurks in all of us. It is the tough casehardened ability to put morality ahead of expediency, duty ahead of deviousness – and to do it instinctively and every time. Honor also means pride in excellence – of every kind; especially excellence of performance."

What is General Lee's duty quote?

Sir/Ma'am, General Lee's quote is as follows, "Duty is the sublimest word in the English language. You should do your duty in all things. You can never do more. You should never wish to do less."

What is General Schofield's discipline quote?

Sir/Ma'am, General Schofield's quote is as follows, "The discipline which makes the soldiers of a free country reliable in battle is not to be gained by harsh or tyrannical treatment. On the contrary, such treatment is far more likely to destroy than to make an army. It is possible to impart instructions and to give commands in such a manner and in such a tone of voice as to inspire in the soldier no feeling but an intense desire to obey, while the opposite manner and tone of voice cannot fail to excite strong resentment and a desire to disobey. The one mode or other of dealing with subordinates springs from a corresponding spirit in the breast of the commander. He who feels the respect which is due others cannot fail to inspire in them regard for himself; while he who feels, and hence manifests, disrespect towards others, especially his inferiors, cannot fail to inspire hatred against himself."

What are The Citadel's Four Pillars of Leader Development?

Sir/Ma'am, The Citadel's Four Pillars of Leader Development are Character, Academics, Military, and Fitness.

XIII. HOW TO SUCCEED AS A KNOB

The Fourth Class system is a key component of the "prepare" stage in The Citadel's four year leader development model. It is more than merely a rite of passage. It is a purposeful program designed to teach followership, instill discipline, transition cadet recruits into the corps, and build self-awareness. The system makes deliberate use of artificial stress to accelerate the training process and you will find knob year to be challenging, demanding, and difficult. The Citadel, the staff and faculty, and your cadet chain of command are dedicated to your success and take seriously their individual and collective responsibilities to help you achieve your goals. This section of The Guidon helps you to better understand and place in context the objectives of the Fourth Class system and provides practical advice to help you negotiate some of the tasks that may be new experiences for you.

Part I: The Objectives of the Fourth Class System

The Blue Book lists the objectives of the Fourth Class system as:

- -To provide new cadets with an understanding of The Citadel's core values of Honor, Duty, and Respect.
- -To teach new cadets the regulations, customs and traditions of The Citadel.
- -To remove wealth and former station as factors in the development of new cadets.
- -To instill in new cadets a sense of humility and selfless subordination.
- -To develop personal character and create a foundation for honorable and ethical decision-making.
 - -To instill new cadets with self-discipline.
- -To physically challenge new cadets and establish a foundation of understanding the necessity of physical fitness for life.
 - -To instruct new cadets in time management.
 - -To prepare new cadets for academic achievement.
- -To inculcate class cohesion in support of The Citadel Mission and the development of Principled Leaders.

These objectives are trained by a combination of specifically designed events as well as by the collective Fourth Class experience. To help you better understand and prepare to accomplish these objectives, each objective is discussed in some detail:

To provide new cadets with an understanding of The Citadel's core values of Honor, Duty, and Respect.

Values help establish a collective identity by embodying what the organization believes is important and providing a basis for the behavior of its members. Values set the parameters for decision-making, inform priorities, and serve as guides to action. Contemplated leadership decisions and actions that run counter to the organization's values are automatically rejected by definition.

At The Citadel, our core values are honor, duty, and respect. They are described in detail in A Guide for the Cadet Leader Development Program available at the website of the Krause Center for Leadership and Ethics http://www.citadel.edu/root/krause-center-publications. You will be formally instructed on The Citadel core values in a variety of forums including LDRS academic classes and the Principled Leadership Skills (PLS) Program.

To teach new cadets the regulations, customs and traditions of The Citadel.

"Regulations" are prescriptive in nature and are the rules established by the proper authority to govern how an organization or system operates. At The Citadel, the regulations come from the authority of the Commandant and are described in the Blue Book. Many of the procedures that support implementation of those regulations are in the White Book. Both documents are available at the website of the Office of the Commandant at http://www.citadel.edu/root/cadet-regulations. You will have dedicated periods of instruction about some of the specific regulations, but you are responsible for mastering their entirety by independent study.

"Customs" do not have the authoritative or prescriptive characteristics of regulations, but they do represent the usual way of acting in given circumstances in a particular society. A military society such as The Citadel has numerous "customs and courtesies" that contribute to good order and discipline as well as add interest, pleasure, and graciousness to life. As a knob you will participate in many customs such as remaining standing as a class to cheer on the team at football games.

"Traditions" are customary patterns of thought, action, or behavior held by an identifiable group of people that help connect one generation to another. They are usually passed by word of mouth rather than written instruction. The Citadel has its own collective traditions, and individual companies also have their own unit traditions. At The Citadel level, for example, there is a Thanksgiving tradition of a celebratory meal in the Mess Hall, and as knobs, you will contribute to that tradition by making hats for upperclass cadets. At the company level, many individual companies have unique mottos that are a part of their unit tradition.

Customs and traditions are subordinate to and can never conflict with regulations. Likewise, regulations are routinely reviewed by the Commandant to ensure consistency with Citadel values. Unfortunately, some cadets occasionally attempt to excuse or justify their deviations from Citadel values and regulations by misidentifying them as customs or traditions. As a knob, you may find yourself deliberately or accidentally placed in such situations. You should know that there are no customs or traditions at The Citadel that do not align with our values and regulations, and knobs, like all cadets, are responsible for using proper judgment in all circumstances. The knob response "Request better judgment, Sir or Ma'am" is a tactful way of signaling that you perceive a lack of alignment between an upperclassman's instructions and your understanding of The Citadel's values and regulations.

To remove wealth and former station as factors in the development of new cadets.

Cadets at The Citadel operate in a standardsenvironment in which natural and consequences are generated by performance. Rewards and punishments are governed by "rule of law," rather than the fickle and capricious whim of an individual. There can be no appeal to favoritism or privilege in Additionally, the routine cadet life such a system. includes myriad tasks of varying degrees of tedium and fulfillment. All of them must be done in order for the organization to function as a whole and there is sufficient work that all cadets must do their share. No one is "too good" to pitch in and no task is "too menial" for anyone. Because Citadel cadets come from a variety of socioeconomic backgrounds, not all have operated in such an egalitarian and communal environment. The austere initial knob haircut, the prohibition against cars for Fourth Classmen, and the close quarters living arrangements are all contributors to this objective.

To instill in new cadets a sense of humility and selfless subordination.

While The Citadel is in the business of developing leaders, it also recognizes that even leaders have someone that they report to, receive guidance from, and obey the orders of. The Citadel also recognizes that to be a good leader, you must be able to empathize with your subordinates. Therefore The Citadel's leadership development model begins by teaching cadets how to be good followers, and its Fourth Class system helps cadets understand the sense of humility and selfless subordination that characterizes a good follower.

Like all followers, Fourth Class cadets should strive in all ways to be "easy to lead." This means respecting authority, complying with regulations and standards, giving maximum effort, being open and receptive to new ideas, and being active participants in the learning process. It also means putting aside one's own opinion or preferences and willingly adopting the leader's agenda and her decisions as if they were your own. Such an attitude may at first seem unnatural and cause conflicts with your previous habits. The Fourth Class system is designed to disengage you from this self-centered attitude and begin you on a path of leadership as service to others.

To develop personal character and create a foundation for honorable and ethical decision-making.

Character is the complex of mental and ethical dispositions that mark and often individualize a person. The Fourth Class system uses artificial stress to create the competing demands for time, energy, effort, and resources that help a knob become aware of and develop his or her character.

A major part of this development with come from learning to live by the letter and spirit of the Honor Code. You will be formally instructed on the Honor Code in a variety of forums including the Principled Leadership Skills (PLS) training and the Honor Manual. For more information go to https://www.citadel.edu/commandant/operations-and-training/.

During Challenge Week you will also be provided an orientation to the host of on- and off-campus religious activities available to all cadets. Additional information is available at the website of the Office of the Chaplaincy: https://www.citadel.edu/chapel/

To instill new cadets with self-discipline.

Self-discipline is the ability to regulate, manage, and hold accountable oneself throughout the process of achieving one's vision, values, and mission. In spite of all the attention they get from upperclass cadets, knobs remain responsible for developing in themselves the discipline necessary to succeed at The Citadel. artificial stress of the Fourth Class system is designed to accelerate this process, but it is not designed to sustain it. Throughout the course of the year, Fourth Class cadets should rely progressively less on externally-motivated discipline and more on the internally motivated kind. They should develop the disciplined habits of duty, prioritization, obedience, time management, problemsolving, decision-making, and consistency that achieve results. Only by this transition can they fulfill what author Pat Conroy (Citadel, 1967) calls the "immortal epigram" that "discipline is the training that makes punishment unnecessary."

At the heart of self-discipline is the ability to subordinate an impulse to a value. As knobs embark on their Citadel experience, they are encouraged to follow Stephen Covey's proscription to "begin with the end in mind" by writing a personal mission statement that focuses on what you want to be and what you want to do, and on the values or principles upon which being and doing are based. This mission statement then becomes the criterion by which you measure everything else in your life. Whenever you discover an inconsistency between your mission statement and your actions, it is self-discipline that restores alignment.

During your counseling sessions with your TAC, you will articulate your near-, mid-, and long-term goals. This exercise will help you decide where you want to go and a plan to get there. Self-discipline will help you follow that plan.

To physically challenge new cadets and establish a foundation of understanding the necessity of physical fitness for life.

All cadets participate in Regimental Physical Training (PT) every Monday and Thursday morning. These sessions vary but typically include a combination of warm up exercises, movement drills, calisthenics, cardiovascular training, strength training running, and organized athletics. All cadets also take a Cadet Physical Fitness Test (CPFT) each semester consisting of hand release push-ups, plank, and a 1.5 mile run. Cadets must also comply with height and weight standards and take two Required Physical Education Program (RPED) courses.

All cadets can participate in NCAA, club, and intramural sports. Some intramurals are open to all cadets, some are exclusively for men, some are exclusively for women, some are co-ed, and some are exclusively for knobs. Intramurals promote both physical fitness as well as comradery.

In addition to these physical effectiveness pillar requirements and opportunities available to all cadets, knob year is especially physically challenging because of its rapid optempo and numerous duty requirements. You will be required to push your physical endurance beyond what you probably consider your present limits. This stress is intentional in order for you to realize your full potential and also develop resiliency. Each company has a Cadet Athletics Officer who is a resource to assist you with your development in the physical effectiveness pillar.

The Blue Book provides provisions for knobs to be ordered by authorized individuals, under authorized circumstances to perform a set of 30 push-ups during Fall Semester and a set of 40 push-ups in the Spring Semester. You will not be required, nor are you authorized to partake in, any additional knob-specific physical training activities unless they have been submitted through the Company Commander to the TAC and approved by the Commandant.

To instruct new cadets in time management.

Perhaps the greatest challenge you will face during knob year is learning how to manage your time. You will purposely be given more to do than you can leisurely or conveniently manage. You will be forced to become more efficient, to ruthlessly prioritize, to plan ahead, and to push yourself to go faster and do more. Prepare yourself.

There are several schedules posted on-line to help you understand your time obligations. The Academic Calendar is available at http://www.citadel.edu/root/aacalendar. This calendar notes such information as when semesters begin and end, holidays and furlough periods. the last day to drop classes, and exam periods. An annual calendar that includes Commandant Department events such as open and closed weekends, football games, parades, and inspections is available at http:// www.citadel.edu/root/operations-and-training/trainingschedules. Each of your classes will also have a syllabus that identifies key dates such as when papers or projects are due, major assignments, and tests and quizzes. It is a good idea to transfer key dates from these individual sources into one master calendar or planner so that you can see the big picture.

Routine cadet life is organized according to the "24 hour schedule." This document is available at the website of the Office of the Commandant. It is where you go to find the recurring events such as formations, ESP, and MRI that will become your regular "battle rhythm." More specific weekly schedules are available at http://www.citadel.edu/root/operations-and-training/training-schedules. Check these at least one week in advance to find specific information about things like that week's PLS, a CPFT, or a special requirement such as a rifle draw or turn-in. Key events from these sources should also be transferred to your master calendar or planner.

While The Citadel experience will place many demands on your time, you also have other obligations such as to your family and your friends. Do not forget about the anniversaries, birthdays, and other significant events in the lives of those who are important people in your life. Add them to your master calendar or planner. You may not be able to participate in person in some of those events, but you will be able to mark them in other ways, even if only by a card, text, or phone call.

Having all your obligations on one document allows you to synchronize your scheduling. You will no doubt find some weeks or days busier than others, and you will have to plan ahead to accommodate them. You will also find some periods that are less busy and you will have to use them to absorb some of the spillover from the busier times.

As previously noted, it is always helpful to "begin with the end in mind." In terms of time management, this is accomplished by the "backwards planning" technique. Begin with the date an event occurs and then work backwards to the present date to assign target completion dates for every interim step. So if a paper is due on a certain date, write that down on your calendar and then work backward to assign dates for when you want to have a friend proofread your final draft, complete the bibliography, write your introductory paragraph, go to the library to do your research, write your thesis, meet with your professor to discuss your topic selection, etc. Backwards planning also incorporates the technique of breaking a big task up into manageable pieces that will also help you accomplish complex tasks that at first may appear overwhelming.

You will seldom be given large swaths of time to focus on a single activity. Instead you will have to learn to master Kipling's challenge to "fill the unforgiving minute with sixty seconds worth of distance run." Maintain a mental inventory of small tasks that can fill short increments of time. Shining shoes, preparing your uniform for the next day, reading a few pages of your textbook, and going for a short run are all examples of how you can productively fill a few random minutes that might otherwise be lost.

Maintain a written "to do" list for more pressing obligations. Some researchers claim that simply writing something down increases your chances of actually accomplishing it by almost a third. Post the list on your desk or somewhere where you will continually see it and check off the items you accomplish. Avoid the temptation, though, of focusing on the easiest or most enjoyable tasks. Discipline yourself to prioritize based on importance.

Do not forget to consciously program sufficient time for sleep. The amount of sleep required varies among individuals, but most college students report being sleep deprived, and sleep deprivation negatively affects academic, mental, physical, and emotional performance. Sufficient, uninterrupted, quality sleep each night is not a luxury or weakness. It is a physical requirement and a performance-enhancer. You will not get all the sleep you want as a knob, but you must get all the sleep you need. You should not organize your time in a way that routinely prevents you from getting at least six hours of sleep each night.

To prepare new cadets for academic achievement.

Knobs are presented with a host of urgent military pillar duties. It may be tempting to concentrate on these matters of immediate consequence at the expense of longer-term academic goals. Do not fall victim to this short-sightedness. The military pillar is designed to complement, not compete with, the academic pillar. The skills that contribute to success in the military pillar such as attention to detail, strong work ethic, and procedural compliance are directly transferrable to academic success. Maintain a proper balance between military and academic responsibilities. Both duties must be accomplished, and you will have to make conscious decisions about how to allocate the resources you have available, especially time. As you develop this capability, always reminder that academic success is non-negotiable.

You obviously were a successful high school student or else you would not be here. However, you should understand that college is different from high school and what made you successful in high school might not be sufficient in college. Generally speaking, in high school you were regularly told what to do and corrected if your behavior did not conform to those instructions. In college you, will be expected to take much more individual responsibility for your actions and you will experience more serious consequences. The Altshuler Learning Enhancement Center at Southern Methodist University has developed a detailed comparison of high school and college that may help you better understand the transition. It is available at http://www.smu.edu/Provost/ALEC/NeatStuffforNewStudents/HowIsCollegeDifferentfromHighSchool. In spite of college's additional emphasis on student responsibility, The Citadel prides itself on making available all the resources you will need to be academically successful.

Evening Study Period (ESP) begins at 1950 each school night and is a time designated to provide conditions conducive to studying. Quiet is maintained, no meetings or other duties are scheduled, and no upperclass other than those involved in academic tutoring will visit your room. You are required to be in your room, the library, or another approved study area during ESP. While The Citadel can create these conditions to help you, it is up to you to use them effectively. As the name states, ESP is a study period. It is not a shine period, social period, or slack off period. It is OK to study for 50 minutes, take a ten minute study break to prepare your uniform for the next day or call home, and then get back to studying, but if you do not discipline yourself to use ESP for its intended purpose, you will probably soon fall behind.

You have a wide academic support network available to you. Each company has a Cadet Academic Officer who will monitor your academic progress and can connect you with additional resources. He or she should be your first stop at the first sign of academic difficulty. Do not wait until the situation worsens. Your Academic Officer can answer many of you questions about the academic pillar, but he or she can also refer you to other resources. Each company and battalion maintains a list of cadet tutors who are available to you. There are also cadets who have the same major as you in your company who will be willing to help you less formally. You will have to maintain the appropriate military bearing, but the Fourth Class system will not stand in your way when receiving academic help from an upperclassman.

The Cadet Academic Officer works closely with a Faculty Company Academic Advisor who is another resource for general academic pillar support, but who should not be confused with the Academic Advisor within the department of your academic major to advise you specifically on your academic program. Even more specifically, each of your professors maintains "office hours" in which he or she is available for walk-in assistance. You can also make specific appointments to see your professor outside of established office hours.

The Student Success Center, Library, Career Center, and Public Speaking Lab also are excellent resources for specific academic needs, and their services are described elsewhere in The Guidon. The main thing for you to remember is that there is a healthy support network available to assist you. You do not necessarily need to know the details of each resource yourself. If you go to your Cadet Academic Officer or TAC and describe your situation, he or she can quickly point you to the appropriate resource. Your responsibility is to take that first step.

To inculcate class cohesion in support of The Citadel Mission and the development of Principled Leaders.

There is an old adage that "No one makes it through The Citadel alone." Your classmates are your teammates and together you will motivate, encourage, assist, and support each other. You will balance out each other's strengths and weaknesses, and work together to succeed. You will discover the "law of the niche" and with it that everyone can contribute. You will also discover the "law of the weakest link" and with it that the team has a vested interest in helping each of its members. Inevitably there will be those among you who have difficulty keeping pace. In those cases, "insulate, don't isolate." Treat that team member with dignity. Help him develop. Help her find her niche. Follow Max Ehrmann's advice not to compare yourself with others, "for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself." Square yourself away so you can lead by example and then look around you and find someone to help. Certainly the time will come soon when the roles will be reversed

Part II: Practical Advice

- 1. You are no longer a civilian. Certain answers such as "yeah" and "ok" will no longer be part of your vocabulary. The five "knob answers" are, "Yes, sir/ma'am," "No, sir/ma'am," "No excuse, sir/ma'am," "Request better judgement, sir/ma'am," and "Request permission to make a statement, sir/ma'am." In all communication, you must refer to an upper-class cadet as "Mister . . ." or "Ms . . ."
- 2. When you receive an order, carry it out to the best of your ability. Arguments are never appropriate. You are expected to obey any legal order by an upper-class cadet.

- 3. Maintain proper posture and take pride in your appearance and bearing. If you should forget to stand erect, you will soon be reminded. Remember, you not only represent yourself, but also your company and the Corps.
- 4. The life of a cadet is far removed from your former way of living. A "lone wolf" will find it difficult to survive within the Corps. Your classmates are your only companions, since fraternization with upper-class cadets is prohibited. Start off right by getting acquainted with your classmates. However, never be afraid to ask an upper-class cadet a question; request permission first and you will find them ready and willing to assist you. When you are allowed to leave campus, it is best to go in a group so that no one will feel left out. Your classmates will be your friends for life.
- 5. You should always hold the highest esteem for the cadet uniform. For many years it has commanded recognition and respect. Never injure that respect by acting in a manner that will reflect discredit upon you, the uniform, or The Citadel. Such actions would constitute a serious infraction of regulations and would dishonor the traditions of The Citadel.
