The Citadel: CARES Act

The Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act provided The Citadel with $1.249 million in Higher Education Emergency Relief Funds for student grants. The funds are targeted to give students cash to cover their expenses related to the disruption of campus operations due to the COVID-19 pandemic, such as food, housing, course materials, technology, health care, and childcare.

The CARES Act Grants were awarded to students based on guidelines from the US Department of Education. To be considered, students had to be eligible for federal student financial aid as determined by the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and making satisfactory academic progress. Additionally, students had to be enrolled in Spring 2020 in a degree program that was not exclusively online prior to the closure of campus.

Approximately 75 percent of the initial CARES Act funding is being disbursed directly to about 500 eligible students in the form of grant aid to help with financial hardships as a result of COVID-19. The remaining 25 percent will be available to other students who apply for and are eligible for emergency financial assistance. The application will be available on this website during the week of May 11.

Following the federal government's recommendation to prioritize students with the greatest need, The Citadel made the first awards to Pell Grant recipients of $1,758 which equaled 75% of the available funding. The next round of grants will allow students who did not already receive a CARES Act grant to apply for up to $1,000 in emergency grants.

The Treasurer's Office will issue the entire grant amount as a direct payment to the student. The grant will not be applied towards any outstanding tuition and fee balances. Checks will be sent by direct deposit if the student is enrolled in electronic refunds through Lesesne Gateway, or a paper check mailed to the student's home address on file.
