In this class, we will read selected stories from the textbook, Advanced Reader of Contemporary Chinese Short Stories: Reflection on Humanities, and two selected chapters from China in Ten Words. We are also going to watch two movies. Readings and movies are all in Chinese. Instruction will be in Chinese and English.

You have an option to complete the writing assignments in either Chinese or English. Grading standards remain the same regardless of the language used. Pop quizzes are on the facts of stories. No interpretation will be involved. Questions on the reading quizzes will be in Chinese and you can choose to answer either in Chinese or English. All essays, whether Chinese or English, are to be typed (Times New Roman, font 12 with one-inch margins). You can choose to give the presentations in either Chinese or English. You are encouraged to use as much Chinese as possible in class.
