LIBERAL ARTS EDUCATION: ITS ENDURING IMPORTANCE

• “Education is the kindling of a flame, not the filling of a vessel.”
  --Socrates, 420 B.C.

• “The value of an education in a liberal arts college is not the learning of many facts, but the training of the mind to think something that cannot be learned from textbooks.”-
  --Albert Einstein, 1914

• “Who will lead America into a bright future? Citizens who are educated in the broadest possible sense, so they can participate in their own governance and engage with the world. An adaptable and creative workforce. Experts in national security, equipped with the cultural understanding, knowledge of social dynamics, and language proficiency to lead our foreign service and military through complex global conflicts. Elected officials and a broader public who exercise civil political discourse, founded on an appreciation of the ways our differences and commonalities have shaped our rich history. We must prepare the next generation to be these future leaders.”
The SHSS is the foundation of a Liberal Arts Education at The Citadel. It teaches students the fundamental principles of major fields of knowledge. It develops their appreciation of the diversity of the human experience. It cultivates their ability to conduct research, to think critically, to draw logical conclusions, and to express their thoughts effectively. It encourages them to welcome—and to learn from—conversations with people who use the same process to arrive at conclusions different from their own. And it emphasizes the need constantly to expand the boundaries of knowledge by promoting the research and publication of its faculty. Through this process, the SHSS seeks to prepare and motivate students to be informed, principled, and effective leaders in all avenues of life.

Among the professions most commonly pursued by SHSS majors are:

- Armed Forces
- National Security (both public and private sectors)
- Business
- Law
- Law Enforcement
- Communications & Journalism
- Education
- Public Service
- Arts

Distinguished alumni include Ernest F. Hollings, John C. West, Joseph P. Riley, Jr., Pat Conroy, Greg Vogle, Morris Robinson, and Petra Lovetinska,

"This approach to a college education provides both broad knowledge in a variety of areas of study and knowledge in a specific major or field of interest. It also helps students develop a sense of social responsibility, as well as intellectual and practical skills that span all areas of study, such as communication, analytical, and problem-solving skills, and a demonstrated ability to apply knowledge and skills in real-world settings."

Featured Panel: “The FBI’s Lead Watergate Investigators Speak Publicly—For the First Time.”

Angelo Lano—Agent assigned the Watergate case. He is the Bureau’s most thorough source of Watergate information. To a person, every person committed to this panel says Watergate wouldn’t have been successful without Lano’s leadership.

John Mindermann—Agent who developed sources in CREEP, including Judy Hoback, a key informant who helped shift the Bureau’s investigation from the burglars to Nixon’s administration. In 1973, occupied the Nixon White House to secure Watergate evidence under order of the Attorney General.

Paul Magallanes—Agent who interviewed Watergate burglars in Spanish in the DC jail mere hours after the Watergate break-in. Developed sources in CREEP, including Hoback.

Dan Mahan—Agent who conducted the majority of White House interviews for the Bureau including John Dean, Charles Colson, and G. Gordon Liddy. Secured E. Howard Hunt’s safe in the White House and carried it back to the Bureau’s Washington Field Office.

John Clynick—Agent who served in the leadership at FBI Headquarters (last living person from Bureau HQ to have worked on Watergate). Served under both J. Edgar Hoover and L. Patrick Gray. Oversaw Lano and the rest of the C-2 Squad agents.

Earl Silbert—Assistant United States Attorney for the District of Columbia at the time of the Watergate burglary and the first prosecutor of the Watergate Scandal. Secured the conviction of the five Watergate burglars, G. Gordon Liddy, and Howard Hunt. Worked closely with Lano and the Bureau during the investigation and prosecution of Watergate.
